UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.

Dedication

TO CHARLES BASKERVILLE,
1892, TEACHER, INVESTIGATOR, AUTHOR, AND INDUSTRIAL ORGANIZER, THE YACKETY YACK OF 1920 IS DEDICATED WITH THE AFFECTION OF ALMA MATER. FORMERLY OF MISSISSIPPI, VIRGINIA, VANDERBILT, BERLIN, AND CAROLINA, AND NOW OF THE COLLEGE OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, HE IS ALWAYS OF CAROLINA.

Charles Baskerville

AS loyally as October rolls around, bringing Alma Mater's birthday, a telegram of good cheer comes to her signed in the filial devotion of Charles Baskerville. Sixteen years ago, Dr. John H. Finley, the President of the College of the City of New York, came to Chapel Hill for commencement and took back to New York the head of the Chemistry Department of the University to become the head of the Chemistry Department of the City College. Dr. Baskerville's career in New York has been watched with affectionate interest by the University and particularly by the chemistry department which he had helped to promote, a department builded and made famous before his time by the scholarship, teaching, and research of Dr. Francis P. Venable, discoverer of acetylene gas, author, and one time president of the American Chemical Society, and after him by Dr. Charles H. Herty, inventor of the revolutionary Herty turpentine cup, twice President of the American Chemical Society, and later Editor-in-Chief of the Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, and head of the Dye Commission to the German Republic. Dr. Baskerville thus has the distinction of sharing with two chemists of the major class, the headship of a chemical department of national standing.

Dr. Baskerville, who was the constructive head of the department between the regimes of Dr. Venable and Dr. Herty, came to the University in 1891 as a student and assistant in chemistry, having graduated from Virginia in 1890, and having done special work at Vanderbilt in 1891. He won his B.S. degree in the University of North Carolina in 1892 and his Ph.D. degree under Dr. Venable in 1894, by brilliant scholarship. His distinction as a student here was more than scientific; he was socially and athletically distinguished. As a football player in 1892, 1893, and 1894, he wrote his name high in Southern athletics. He was fullback and manager of the famous team, captained by Michael Hoke, that defeated the University of Virginia 26 to 0 in Atlanta in 1892. His clever diagnosis of Virginia's offense, his own fast attacks and punting were large factors in the decisive victory. Although weighing only one hundred and forty pounds, he was considered by Dr. Joel Whitaker, in selecting the All-time University Football Team, for the position of fullback along with such legendary giants as Belden, Graves, Holt, and Abernethy. Belden out-pointed him, however, by forty pounds of steel weight. His interest in athletics continued after his football days. As a member of the University Faculty Athletic Committee, Dr. Baskerville stood solidly for class sportsmanship and amateur athletic standards in the pioneer days when it required courage to stand against the taint of professionalism. His influence as a good sportsman is felt to-day both in the City College and in the club life of New York.

But it is not as a club-man that we now think of him in New York where he belongs to a score or more of social, commercial, and scientific associations—local, national, and foreign—in addition to the honorary and social fraternities of Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Kappa Epsilon. In continuance of his splendid work here as head of the department, he has built up a strong college department in City College. Here his department grew from two hundred and fifty-three students in 1900-1901 to four hundred and five in 1903-1904. At City College his department grew from two hundred and fifty students in 1904 to one thousand, four hundred and eleven in 1919. The Campus, a publication of City College, in the 1919 December issue, reviewing the progress of the chemical department since 1904, headlines the fact, "Dr. Baskerville Starts New Era." In recent years, Dr. Baskerville's scientific interest has taken an industrial turn and he is now a factor in the chemical policies of several large enterprises. He established the Baskerville Products Company which supplied a part of the anaesthetics used by America in the war. Carolinium and Berzelium which he explored, and which exhibited characteristics of elements, were adjudged oxides by reviewing chemists. Dr. Baskerville has made other and unquestioned contributions to the science and application of chemistry, among which are investigations in the chemistry of anaesthetics, the application of radium in medicine, processes for refining oils, hydrogenation of oils, plastic compounds, and re-enforced lead. He has held important offices in the American Chemical Society, such as Chairman of the Committee on Occupational Diseases, and Chairman of the New York Section, which is the largest section in the society. He has published books on inorganic chemistry and radio-activity.

Born in Mississippi in 1870, schooled there and at Virginia, Vanderbilt, and Berlin, it was at Chapel Hill that he won his bachelorhood in science and his doctorate. It was here that he taught for thirteen years, and it was in the laboratories of the University of North Carolina that he worked long and hard over unheralded test-tubes before he went forth to a high place in science in the City of New York. North Carolina has yet a dearer claim, for in Raleigh he won the hand of Miss Mary Boylan Snow, of a family long associated with the University, who continually cheered and inspired him both when he failed and when his later achievements led to a greater development of American industry and trade.

Chapel Hill and the University join the YACKETY YACK in the gladness of this dedication of the 1920 Year-book to Charles Baskerville, 1892—teacher, executive, investigator, author, and industrial expert. The spirit of the University village goes out to him in the midst of his metropolitan labors and claims him as Carolina's own.

Foreword

TO present to our fellow-students a record of their achievements and life on the campus for the past year in its entirety.

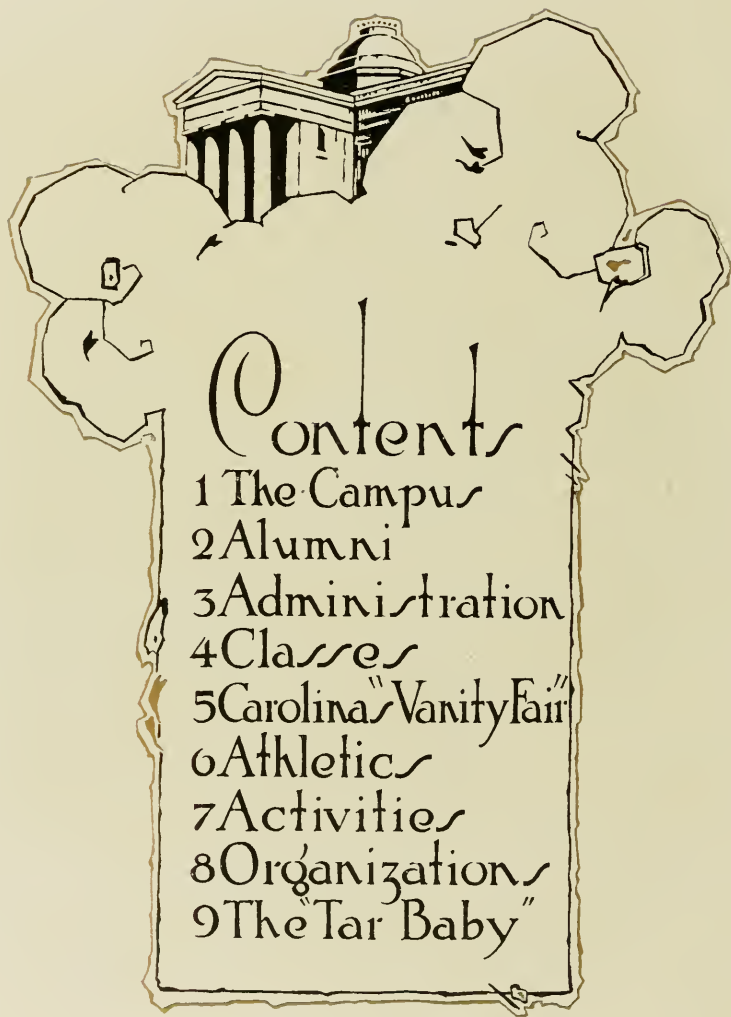

To bring the people of this great State closer to their University.

To, perhaps, awaken in the heart of some old "Carolina Man", remembrances of happy college days spent here.

The Editorial Staff has this as its purpose in the 1920 issue of the YACKETY YACK.

THE YACKETY YACK would like to be more than a pleasant reminder of college days, full of friendly faces and happy experiences. In addition to conserving the history of the Carolina campus for the year 1919-1920, it recognizes an opportunity and a duty in setting forth the outstanding feature of the year in the life of the Commonwealth which gave it birth and from which it draws its sustenance both material and human. In doing so, the setting of the stage on which most of us are to be actors, will have been portrayed.

What you see on the pages which follow are fragments of a story of varied achievement in which all North Carolinians may justly take pride. But they are more than tokens of mastery. They are flashes on the screen of abounding opportunity which awaits us as we face toward a lifework. This year in the life of North Carolina will stand for the ripening of our industrial life into the fullness of self-reliant young manhood feeling its strength and ready for new and larger tasks. As the business activity of the State increases in volume and complexity, problems of expanding organization and efficiency in management arise and call for trained and disciplined men. Some of the bitter fruits of the transition have also come to us. This year witnessed the first widespread organized conflict between labor and capital in a State formerly complacent in its freedom from industrial strife. The bloodshed at Charlotte, Concord and Albemarle, gives evidence of a need for the breadth of sympathy, care in study of causes, and patient confidence in results that a college-trained man should be able to supply.

As it has responded in times past, the University would prepare itself to advance to meet this new call for a trained and consecrated leadership in the field of industry.

The Carolina Alumni

THERE exists a mutual pride between the University of North Carolina and its Alumni. Carolina men who graduated years ago, defend and cherish the name of Carolina as above all others. Their pride is a just pride, imposed in an institution that is worthy of their love and of their support. No unworthy institution would be able to bind its students to it by such strong bonds of affection.

On the other hand, the greatest asset that Carolina has had, a driving force that compels it to be great, is the record of the men who have gone forth from our college walls. As leaders in every phase of life in our own North State, and as men of accomplishment and of character the world over, one by one we point to our Alumni, and say with pride, "He is a Carolina man."

Educators, bankers, lawyers, business men, every profession finds representatives in Carolina men. During the World War, the record of our Alumni in the service of our country won admiration all over the United States and reflected credit upon this University. We find them leaders in organizations for social uplift and civic betterment. As we look into the life of the State, we see Carolina men prominent in every field.

Time after time, Carolina's Alumni have demonstrated their loyalty to their Alma Mater. And so the Editors of the YACKETY YACK wish in this publication to dedicate this space to representative Alumni who have put the ideals of our campus into practice in the life of the State.

ADMINISTRATION

Harry Woodburn Chase

OUR President, Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, is a young man of thirty-six years. A native of Groveland, Massachusetts, and a descendant of typical New England stock, he came to us with a successful career as college student and instructor, and as a teacher in the public schools. He pays homage to Dartmouth College (1904) as his Alma Mater, from which institution he also received his M.A. (1908). Clark University claims the honor of granting him the degree of Ph.D., in 1910. In the fall of that same year he came to our University as Professor of the Philosophy of Education, and in 1917 was made Professor of Psychology.

His career as an executive, dates from the appointment of Dean Stacy as Chairman of the Faculty to succeed the lamented Edward Kidder Graham, when Dr. Chase was made Acting Dean of the College of Liberal Arts. Succeeding Dean Stacy at his death, as Chairman of the Faculty, Dr. Chase clearly demonstrated his ability as a leader of students and of men, as well as an executive of both fine and high character. By a unanimous vote of the Trustees he was chosen as the President of our institution in June, 1919.

Essentially, a scholar and a dreamer, there is enough of the pragmatist in Dr. Chase to make him unwilling to commit himself to a program of action until he sees clearly the end from the beginning. He thinks quickly but is not hasty; he acts directly but is not thoughtless, he feels keenly but is not sensitive. He gets close to student life, is sympathetic and stimulating, a living example of the scholar he would have every student to be—a lover of books but not bookish, a seeker for knowledge but no pedant.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

History of the Class of 1920

I CAME back to see the "Hill" again. I had often heard about midsummer weather in Chapel Hill, but now I knew for the first time what it really was. At least, the trip in from University Station was no exception to what it always had been; antique coaches, uncomfortable seats, black smoke and a see-saw motion for an hour or more. Moreover, the weather was very sultry this time. The shouts of darkies for my truck check, and a few cabs and machines drawn up near-by announced Carrboro. Out of the crowd came two familiar faces—"Bull" Durham and "Brock," the latter seizing my suitcase and gliding me quickly up the street. At Patterson's Drug Store, he adjusted spark and gas and eyed me rather skeptically until I had placed the sum of two bits in his outstretched hand.

Soon I took the usual course up past the red brick church and around the Library and ventured a peep at the campus. There it was, spread out before me, just as it always had looked I thought. A bright sun beat down through green leaves and across ivied walls. It seemed so fine again. I saw no one around and I felt as though the bell in South was very neglectful of its duty, for at its call I knew that the campus would again be full of students discussing long assignments, quizzes, and "sixes" as they hurried on to other classes. But no, I should have known better; of course it was after Summer School. There really was no one around but myself. I wanted all the more to see some of the old boys and to talk with them and to find out what they had been doing since I had last seen them, but my mere wish did not bring its fulfillment, and unlike the magician of old, no classmates arose from the ground before me in answer to my summons. And so I looked about. Across in Old East was my first room in college. I decided to peep in and see if it had changed very much. As I walked across, I knew that each old building there knew a part of the life of each classmate of mine. Each stood there boldly and silently, a sort of mutual friend and protector to us all. As each class came in, lived, and passed away, it had left unwritten behind it in the midst of these old buildings and trees, its real history. To each member of the class this record may have seemed different, depending on his particular cross-section of college life, but the fact was evident to me that a permanent, unchangeable record was left by each class which the campus alone treasured as its own.

But the old room hadn't changed much. There were the white walls and the high ceiling and the '74 and '89 carved on the window sill. Hours of study and play had changed it but little. Late at night it had often furnished the rendezvous for the usual "session." In times of stress when the top floors had been flooded with water, and upperclassmen in raincoats braved the passage of the stairway, it had furnished us protection. When the snowflakes fell and the bloodthirsty cry of "FRESH!" was heard outside, it was in this room that we had gathered and run the gauntlet of flying snow and ice. It was also during this first year that the shadow of war had fallen across our campus. The looming presence of this graver situation wiped out the last traces of class interest and rivalry. From that time on, the Carolina spirit was applied solidly to a real fight. Out behind the South Building, with the aid of the stars and a few tiny electric bulbs, we learned from those most competent among us the elements of army life which many of us later successfully employed on the fields of France. As southern camps would in turn call on us for men, we put aside our books and cheerfully accepted the life of the army. Each day the call was heard, and by the end of the second year the shattering effect of war was telling severely on our numbers. The S. A. T. C. came on, and just as many were about to leave for camp, the war suddenly ended, and we were again turned back into student life and problems of campus reconstruction.

So these two empty stands on Emerson Field were the same ones that I had often seen filled with excited rooters. How we had watched our first attempts at athletic fame—back in the days of Fisher, Herty, Spaugh, and Pritchard. We watched spirals and long runs, marveling all the while, little dreaming of the prominent part that this class was to play on Thanksgiving, 1919. As Freshmen we fought the Sophs, and as Sophs we fought the Freshmen for class predominance in athletics. As Carolina men we had done our very best to hold up the good standard of all Varsity teams.

Running out by the field was the old road to Raleigh. On dark nights strange noises are said to have been heard on this road out near the cemetery; sometimes a doleful song; often an excited speech; on occasions, lights are said to have burned on the tops of tombstones there, and the words of Homer or Milton repeated over and over again. White-robed figures would move silently out the old road and be swallowed up by the darkness. No one seemed to know why or where they went, but there was no doubt as to their presence.

A small light shone in front of the "Y" Building. I entered and looked in the little office for Bob, but as usual he was not there. Our First Class Smoker had been held here, and I well remember the scramble for "smokes" and "eats." Cunningham told us all about Carolina spirit, as though a Sophomore didn't know everything. Dr. Patterson explained just what a shell is made of, and why it would kill fifty "Heinies" as easily as it could kill one "Yank." We strutted around that night and defied the Fresh to even insinuate a slighting remark, hoping all the time that they would. Here also, toward the end, had come our quiet and enjoyable Senior gatherings 'neath the old Purple and Gold. John presided at the end of the large room with the "flock" gathered around him. These "get-togethers" were always great occasions.

Upstairs was the room where the Student Council met—that most unfortunate body of eight. Some of the boys would call it the head of Student Government; others, however, called it the Carolina Shipping Board. I shall never forget just how we would all get around and wonder who was up, whenever we would see Tom Wolfe and Washburn walking in the "Y" together.

mittent crash of dumb-bells or the thud of the punchbag. At each end, streamers of blue and white were delicately hung where only a while before these same places had

An automobile passed by the South Building, turned and stopped at the Gym. Why, that is history itself, I thought. Just so on many nights had I seen machines full of merrymakers draw up and empty there. Long-leaf pine, white columns, and variegated lights peeping here and there from the overhead arbor of green, had often made me wonder whether that could really be the same old place. Why, just that afternoon and on that very same floor had been heard the inter-formed the storm centres of basket-ball. Cheers had followed the spinning ball from end to end, a yell announcing each successful goal. The locker rooms below, which would soon be decorated with cloaks and scarfs, had perhaps just that afternoon witnessed a council meeting of a team just before the game and heard one of those orations that only a coach can deliver.

And so from building to building and on every part of the campus I wandered. Everywhere I went I found the remembrance of the class; the scene of some past incident. The Phi and Di Halls, The Chapel, Memorial Hall, and the old postoffice, all had their story of bygone days to tell. I was not tired, though it was getting late and darkness had almost come. I saw the white posts of the well through the trees. It was the old gathering place of the boys. Early in the morning we had been awakened by the bell and the band playing "I'm a Tar-heel Born", and we had congregated there yelling "On to Richmond!" or "On to Greensboro!" Sometimes we celebrated victories there by great bonfires. At other times, especially on bright nights, the appeal of the Cone-Hughes string orchestra, playing a strange combination of jazz and sad melodies, held us there for hours at a time. I turned away; I had lived many happy years over again that afternoon; I wanted to make my experience real. I "caught" supper at Gooch's and then went "skiffing" off on the 7:30 car to see a show in Durham. I had seen the "Hill" again as I had known it.

1920 Says a Few Words to Carolina

We stand 'round the well in the white gleaming moonlight

And look at the square of the buildings old,
And sharp is the thought of tomorrow; tonight
Is the last—ah—we've been told
How hard it was, but not till now
Have we felt the deep twisting pain of the parting
From you—Carolina—we did not allow
For the deep biting grief that now we feel starting.

Yet it's not the old buildings that causes the pain

(You brown, dirty buildings—and God knows that's true),

But comes back the feeling again and again
That we part from a friend—Carolina, it's you,
You cared not for sects or for social degree;
You care not for dogmas or creeds now as then;
You take the crude stuff and you fashion it free,
Till shapen and moulded you send forth your men.

Tomorrow we leave—1920, your War Class,
A class proud in deeds in a war that was won,
A mixture of warrior and student—we pass,
The warfaring student salutes, and is gone,
Leaving State's mantle to those just below;
Pausing to listen as South's slow toll rings,
Then quickens as to our successors we bow,
For—"The kings having gone—long live the kings!"

Ah! sometimes from the straight white path
Our stumbling steps may stray;
And sometimes where the hillside slopes
We'll choose the easier way;
And sometimes when the path is rough
That takes us straight through life,
Our strength will fail, and craven-like,
We'll shun the bitter strife,
To choose the broad and paven road.
And eat the lotus leaf.

Yes, some will fail and take this road,
For grinding toil and grief

Are on the sterner road you point,
With hand in hand their mate,
Good Manhood, walking true and brave
Along the path that's straight.
Yes, some will falter on this road
And choose the broader way,
But when again the soft nights come
And Spring has come to stay,
They'll think perhaps of this last night—
The Campus white and still,
The dorms, the well, the old South bell—
Of all that's on the "Hill",
And then they'll leave the broader path
That leads to life's ill wrack,
To seek again the narrow one and—
Finding it—come back.

To some will fall the ivy wreath
That marks the place of fame,
While some will plod along beneath
The peaks of greatest name;
The years will pass and very faint
Will be your call to these,
For time is scornful of the past
And ever onward flees.
But sometimes when the Springtime comes,
And the sifting moonlight falls—
They'll think again of this night here
And of these old brown walls,
Of white old well, and of old South
With bell's deep booming tone,
They'll think again of Chapel Hill and—
Thinking—come back home.

L'ENVOI

(Again '20 talks to Carolina)
Some say that God worked six days hard
And made the world for man—
But on the seventh rested.
We have a better plan—
For, being God he was not tired;
This is the broader view,
God made the world in six days—
The seventh, he made You!

"SID" is one of the tallest members of our class, with a head longer than his legs and every inch of it a square inch of business. Besides being successful in all his work, he is one of the most popular and well-liked boys in his class. His ease, pleasant manner, his keen sense of humor and good looks have won for him a lasting place with both sexes. In athletics, too, he shows no mean ability, having been a tower of strength in the Senior Class line for the past season. By the fortune of his name he stands first in this Annual: by dint of his ability and personality he should stand before long among the foremost in the business world.

OLA ANDREWS
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.

Age, 00; Weight, 114; Height, 5 feet 2 inches

N. C. College for Women, '15-'17; U. N. C. Women's Association.

WE thank North Carolina College for a good student. In fact one of our "most formidable" Math profs admits it, anyway. This girl with the modest blush and the retiring manner has a very pleasing personality, as all who know her will testify. We prophesy great success as her portion in helping to educate North Carolina youth.

"BILL" is the kind of fellow that everyone likes, good-looking, good-natured and capable; that describes him. Look where you will into college life and you will find "Bill", smiling and full of pep. Much of his time is spent in teaching underclassmen the profound truths of geology, his chosen profession. But he always has plenty of time left from all his work and activities to keep solid with the girls, for when "Bill" gets "slicked up" and steps out amongst the fair co-eds, he may well deem his winning smile and soft accent irresistible. For "William Henry, Jr.", you know, has the Southern gentleman's drawl.

Age, 20; Weight, 136; Height, 5 feet 9 inches

Geological Club; Albemarle Club; Phi Society (3), Vice-President; Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society; Y. M. C. A. (3, 4); Assistant in Physics; Instructor in Physics, Summer School, '19 (4); Assistant in Geology (4).

"JOTHIAS", "Just a simple babb", and "Pithocanbarus"—these are a few of the names that Babb goes by. He knows every rock that ever was and some that "wasn't". It makes Jeff Bynum and Harry Davis both smile with envy, for when Collier is in doubt he calls on Babb. If Dr. "Pat" wants a physics lab run or a textbook adopted, he calls on "Joe". The Phi Society could not run without him. 'Tis said that Josiah got three haircuts in one day during a snow in his Freshman year, but he fails to deny or affirm such a charge. At any rate, he has been known to laugh himself helpless at some of Check Burton's jokes. Truly a sad example of what Collier and his jokes will bring a man to.

CHARLES WORTLEY BAIN

"WORT" is another one of those war veterans who has had enough determination and desire for a college education to come back from active service and complete his courses. He has a remarkably quick mind, and with it a disposition that makes him have a smile for everyone he meets. This probably accounts for his great number of friends and admirers on the campus.

EDWIN CHARLTON BALLENTINE

"IVORY Babe"—not because we think that he is such a "hard boy" nor because of the darling effect produced by those evenly-parted locks which would suggest the second name even to a man; but to see him on a lab, surrounded by machines, instruments, and live wires, playing with the whole affair as the data sheet fills gradually with information from an accurate pen—then his title is suggested from its real source. But "E. C.'s" talents do not run in electricity alone, for he is a musician far above the ordinary, and it is rumored that he has a most irresistible way with the ladies. "Charlton" will soon go to Pittsburgh to show the Westinghouse a few new tricks and shortcuts of the game.

BENEATH a happy, amiable, care-free air, and a broad and joyous grin, Hugh with his agreeable and generous disposition and whole-hearted impetuosity, carries a nature that can be as serious as his loyalty to his friends is deep, and a character that is marked by dependability and a scrupulous care as to sincerity and principle. This with his love of a good time and good fellowship makes him the best of company under both the most trying and pleasant conditions. Success in any undertaking in life is sure to follow such a combination of admirable qualities.

"GUS" first came into prominence as the receiver of John Cotton Tayloe's famous note—"Gus, keep care of them football stuffs for me". He was captain of the first year reserves back in 1916 and then didn't get another chance to show what he could do along the football line until this year, when he made his place on the varsity and played a steady game at centre all the season. "Bill" not only centres at football, for his Fashion Park Model appearance and his terpsichorean abilities have made him the "center" of attraction on more than one ball-room floor, and he can sing, too, as three years' experience on the Glee Club will testify.

HERE is a ladies' man from the word "go". The fact that "C. P." hails from Morganton does not hinder him from standing well with the fair sex. Clarence began his college course with the class of '18, but felt the call of his country and left in the Spring of '17 to serve Uncle Sam as a "Looney". Since his return he has taken an eminent position among the electrical engineers of our class, and often in the wee, sma' hours of the morning may be heard "Morsing" over the telegraph wires in the New Dorms by the E. E. "Bulls" between their rooms. A man with such ingenuity and persistency should do well in his chosen work.

North Carolina Club; Latin-American Club, Secretary; Gaston County Club, President; Di Society; Winner Freshmen Debate; Student Member North Carolina Reconstruction Commission.

TO the world we introduce "Tom" as a man of pluck who has met and subdued the perils of Carolina courses and discourses. He has turned discouragements into success and now goes forth into the broad field of business management, with a big vision. While in college, "Tom" has associated with men and organizations of note. Although intimately connected with the Branson "régime", he loves to talk about the teachings of Horace and delights to ramble with Parson Moss. He stands aloof from active participation in the work of the Y. M. C. A., and comments with telling sarcasm upon the Terry Organization of campus fame, the purpose of which is to reveal the ideals and ideas of others. Let us follow him with interest as he goes to Harvard to prepare for his special work.

A "GOOD egg", a hard worker and as independent as he pleases—that's "Eris". He thinks that he always has more to do than he really has, and so he is continually on the go, but we who know him can see beneath the superficialities, disclosing in Cowles a true Southern gentleman of the old school. Few have a more highly developed aesthetic sense, especially when feminine beauty is the matter under consideration. More than one of his classmates will follow him with interest as he continues along the primrose path of life, strewn with the maidens' hearts his good looks and winning ways have broken.

"LITTLE Man" or "Pope Leo" or "Otto" is one of our important men. Possessed of the ability to do a number of things at one time, he has succeeded in obtaining a degree with as little work as possible. With the same ease he has become one of the foremost in the social realm; a living example of the proverb that "The race is not always to the swift, nor the ladies' hearts to the handsomest". Withal, "Heartt" is a product of whom his Alma Mater may well be proud.

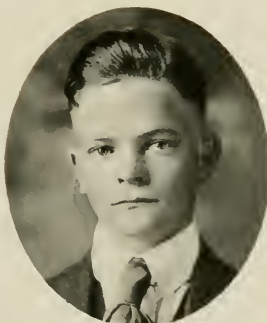

WILLIAM HORACE BUTT
CHAPEL HILL, N. C.

Age, 20; Weight, 144; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

Phi Society; Gym Team; Class Football; Brotherhood of Saint Andrew.

HORACE having been a resident of Chapel Hill for several years, has naturally imbibed the spirit of learning existing here. He is a constant and hard working student, a gym expert and soccer artist, and a ladies' man of the first rank. And in all of these lines he is proficient in a quiet, unassuming way which makes us like him the first time that we meet him. While he may not be one of the disciples of his famous namesake, "Horace" has an optimistic philosophy of life which will carry him over the rough spots of the future with an unruffled countenance.

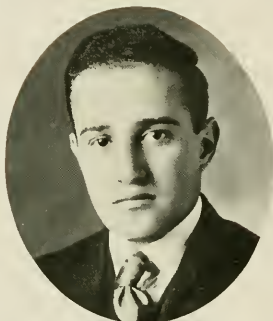

CHARLES CLARENCE CARTER
MORGANTON, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 150; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

"C" or "Jack"—although his initials look like the advertisement of a nostrum, to his friends he is known as a man without hypocrisy or deceit. His smile and bubbling good humor are tonics. A "bull session" with him will cure a Phi Beta Kappa candidate who has just pulled a "six". Were it possible, some enterprising person would put the stuff of which he is made into capsules and reap a fortune thereby. Though a good chemist, he has never yet been known to analyze the faults of a friend, and has always tried to find those things which are best in a man. May his later life bring him as many friends and as great achievements as his four years with us.

REASONABLY stout, black hair, brown eyes, and if he shaves twice a day (which he never does), he is quite handsome. As director of the Mandolin Club, on the dance floor, or on Kent Brown's German, "Ben" is absolutely a tease. He is quite a good business man and has the absolute confidence of the entire student body in any of his undertakings. He always attempts to find the good in people and earnestly believes in forgetting their faults. We are only too proud to call him a real Carolina man.

"SHORTY" came to us from the Old Dominion, but a truer Tar Heel would be hard to find. He has made many friends on the campus both through his happy-go-lucky personality and his ability on the baseball field. In him we have the combination of a good student, a good fellow and one who has a kind word and a smile for everyone. In the lab and as Business Manager of the Carolina Chemist he has demonstrated his business ability, while Dame Rumor hath it that he is equally successful in other lines. "Shorty" boy, we hate to see you go.

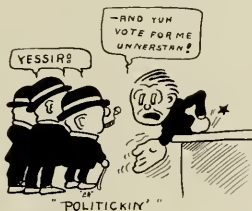

GEORGE DEWEY CRAWFORD

"G D" is an idealist with a happy mixture of rare common sense—one of those guys who "concepts" with Horace and "economizes" with Dudley D. He is also one of the illustrious followers of Frederick Koch, and has made several appearances on the stage. His pet dream is to get a thousand subscribers to the Magazine, and he will come near doing it, too. His only failing is getting all the Summer School girls in love with him every summer. But really, that is not his fault, and on the other hand, a glance above will show that in the past he has gotten results along more serious lines. "We know no way to judge the future but by the past".

GROVER CLEVELAND DALE
SEVEN SPRINGS, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 140; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

DALE came with this mighty name and with the Class of '10, but he gave up his Senior year to the life of a "gob". Seriously and diligently alike, he masters the musical rhythm of math, and the ways of astronomy. His bearing in study, play, or fight is calm intensity. He displays a refreshing good humor in dining hall, class room or on the campus. With latent energy and winning personality, he goes forth to be stalked by misses—among others Miss Opportunity and Miss Fortune.

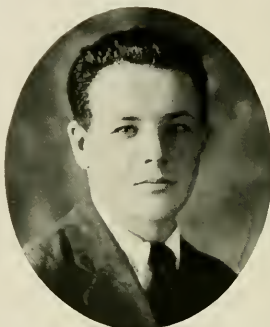

DONALD SNEAD DANIEL
WELDON, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 150; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

Freshman Football; Halifax County Club; Phi Society; Pan-Hellenic Council, '19; Glee Club, '16, '17, '18; Leader Gimghoul Spring Dance; Assistant Leader Gimghoul Fall Dance, '19; Gimghoul; Coop.

K A.

A BONE of contention among the ladies and giving "bonne attention" to them, "Don" is a confirmed believer in co-education, and well has he cause to be, for he is another of the Weldon trio that ran such a race for the handsomest in the class. A consistent worker, he follows a healthy routine of work and play but his strongest claim to fame lies in the fact that he is the only man in the class that has succeeded in developing a mustache. From class room to ball floor, on the campus and throughout the State, "Don's" ready wit, good looks and chivalrous manners have made him a favorite of all.

WORTH BAGLEY DANIELS

Δ K E.

"ENORMOUS Gormous Watainaba Daniels" is a simple soul in spite of his high-sounding name. He should certainly go on the stage, for he has the great gift of creating impressions. To see him dashing violently hither and thither over the campus you would certainly think that the weight of the universe was upon his shoulders and that the idea was to get rid of the burden before dinner. His main occupation consists in passing the time between meals. It is predicted with confidence that he will be a world-famed dietician. Besides a marked proclivity in the art that gave him his name, he has shown real ability in his pre-med studies. He is in all a good scout and loyal to the end.

Δ K E.

TO one who saw Bill Dowd when he first came to college the sight of him now is a whole volume on the evolution of a Freshman. Demure at first, he now is decidedly a man of the world. Above all else he is a specialist—whether it be one girl, one shirt, or one course. He is an ardent believer in the value of Charles Lee's economics—but "let me put it this way"—his active participation in college activities has won for him a host of friends and he will leave an impression which will cause us to remember him long after he is gone.

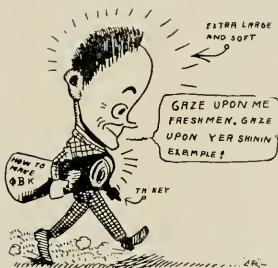

HOUSTON SPENCER EVERETT
ROCKINGHAM, N. C.

Φ B K; Σ T; Π K A.

IF we had more men like Houston, college might well bear the indictment of being an "Institution of Learning". He has never allowed the good old college proverb of our balmy student days to interfere with his dastardly purpose—said purpose being to get the most out of his textbooks. To those ambitious for good grades, the King of the Phi Beta Kappas has demonstrated that a man need not be a recluse from his fellows in order to wear the key. His college record shows that he has sought with success the Greek ideal—the all-around man.

HOLT PEBBIN FAUCETTE
GRIMESLAND, N. C.

Age, 24; Weight, 168; Height, 5 feet 11 inches

FAUCETTE, better known as "Spiket", is another of our geology "bulls", and few exceed him in ability to handle such a hard subject. He is a good student (when he can find someone to study with him), and above all "Spiket" loves his big cigars when the time and the place is good. All jokes aside—he is a good sport, a fine friend and a genuinely "good egg".

THIS little lady has most happily succeeded in combining the ability to make "one's" and "two's" on math and Latin with the ability to make friends—of both sexes. Rachael came to us from the Normal in her Junior year and quickly became imbued with the Carolina spirit and adapted to Carolina life. She is a good sport, a disciple of "Horace", an admirer of athletics—wither a "Carolina woman".

ALLEN is another one of the favored few of '20 whom hard work has rewarded with an N. C. in football in that glorious year when we defeated both Virginia and N. C. State. He has a good word for everyone and is one of the most popular boys in the class. If he has ever been grouchy, no one has ever found it out. And as for dancing, what would a dance be without "Pig"? He can manage them, head them, grace them—and all with the same natural ease and popularity which have won him so many friends during his stay with us.

HERE is one of those quiet, reserved fellows who affiliated with our class as a result of his service in the war, having entered with the Class of '10. You can look into his face and see evidences of winning qualities for the game of life. Uncle Sam recognized these qualities and called on him during the recent war, honoring him with a commission. He cares for no man's opinion, but always acts on his own judgment and initiative. A man without affectation, full of sand and stick-to-it-iveness, the kind we like to admire—he has proven a welcome addition to our ranks and we are glad to claim him as our own.

QUICK, pleasant, even-tempered, these are the traits that characterize Leo. Without hesitation we would say that Leo has made a success of his college career in every way and has won a host of friends. His unsought popularity has given him many honors in college activities, and while hard work and Leo have never been very intimate friends, he has always managed to make good in his work and to keep well above the average in scholarship.

"DELL" or "Michael Angelo Toblock" is one of those steady-going, persistent men through whom a class lives and grows. Expanding through the would-be "legal authority", "Dell" safely weathered the mathematics of "Hick's" civil engineering, and now reaches for his sheepskin as a well deserved reward. Occasionally he stops mapping roads on a sheet of paper that reaches all around the room, long enough to indulge in a pipeful of "P. A." while he "bulls" the Carteret County group that centres about him—which, by the way, is his pet pastime. Highway engineering is his chosen work. Along the highway of life it is rumored that his heart is already engaged; be that as it may, certain it is that "Hill" will run traverses in life that are inclusive of much that it is good to call one's own.

WE admire his pluck and tenacity. If there is a man on the campus who has worked harder or gotten more out of his college course than Hoyle, we want to see him. And he has done it in three years at that. Perhaps, however, his record is not so hard to explain when we consider that Hoyle acquired a life companion before he even attempted the acquisition of a degree. When it comes to thinking and writing, he is there. He is planning to help combat the forces of ignorance in our State, and we are confidently expecting to hear more from "Prof" Hoyle.

LAWRENCE is a boy with unusual drive. As "chow" administrator at "Swine", he has so well mingled business with his jolly good spirit that he has made a host of friends. The Phi Society has been the medium through which he has worked out his forensic tendencies with no small degree of success, while in affairs of the heart, he has risen to the front in his Senior year, for we occasionally hear of his slipping quietly off the campus bent on Cupid's errand. All in all, "L. W." is a hard-hitting student and a good friend—may be a future politician.

"JENKS"—five feet and six inches of canned energy, but the peculiar thing about this energy is that it is always in use, yet never seems to give out. He started fast in his Freshman year and kept going until he ran into the big war, which for the time claimed his attention as an Ensign in the Navy. He then returned to college with redoubled vigor—and when it comes to fighting ignorance, this fellow slings a wicked pen. Conscientious both in work and in play, "Jenks" has profited both by his college and naval training, and embarks upon the sea of opportunity with the ability to land successfully in any port that he chooses.

HERE is a combination of actor and ladies' man. He has held down both jobs well, and has done a few things on the side, chief among which, perhaps, is the engineering of our class elections. "Bess" knows all the latest "dope", chiefly because he knows every man on the Hill. If you want to learn the inside workings of anything, big or little, get the details from Ralph. In the good old days, "Bess" made a bunch of friends, and now in spite of his border of skulls and med books, he has time to be both a friendly man and a manly friend.

"BOBBIE" is one member of our class who has put into practice the good old adage, "laugh and grow fat". He has a smile that won't come off and that persists even through the long hours and vile odors of the chemistry lab where he spends not a little of his time. Like most men who tend toward portliness, "Bobbie" is not overly fond of hard work, yet he even manages to pass German at "Kent's" stride. He is strong for the ladies and the dances, and in this case another old proverb does not hold good—"nobody loves a fat man".

"BIG Stuff" is a successful combination of good student, good athlete and "good egg". He has a quiet, modest, unassuming nature—one that makes friends and holds them. His ability as a pitcher is shown by the monogram and stars which he won on the baseball field for three consecutive years. But all of "CR's" activities are not on the ball field, for he takes great delight in the most intricate mathematical problems. The least that we can say of him is that he is a "Carolina man" of the first order.

"BILL", better known as "Pres", is a noted sensation-producer. We find him anywhere and at all times—yea, verily, Bain's is no exception! He startled us one day by appearing at a Senior Class meeting and announcing that he had just skipped a whole year's work. Unlimited accomplishments, along with a host of both good and "vampish" looks, spell death for the co-eds. The "Moonlight Blues" is "Bill's" undisputed "hesitation hit", and yet he has never failed to answer the roll-call when Collier's "puddin'" is served.

THE tides of war cast him upon our shores, for he entered with '18 and joined us after two years with the Colors had interfered with his literary pursuits. Our youthful veteran can do a multitude of things, but withal is so modest that you never know exactly whether "Bill" is at the bottom of it or not. He can romp around third base with the best of them, and we feel sure that he must have had his share in catching Hindenburg when he tried to steal home in the World War. And when it comes to making friends, he bats 1000 all the time. "Bill" does everything hard, and we admire him for it.

"SKINNER" is a student out of arms who does things, and he isn't a bit "stuck up" over the fact. Tennis and basketball are his diversions, dancing his delight, English his specialty, law his vocation—and he is A-1 in all of them. We must look far to find a better man. Tom has only three faults: First, he is a member of the Vance 8 organization; second, he pulls puns on every occasion; third, his law career will be greatly hampered by his lack of polish in the art of lying. But "Kit" is true blue and we are for him.

NO, we can't call her a co-ed, for she has a real, honest-to-goodness, live husband. Now gather 'round in envious jealousy—you co-eds, I mean. We will just have to put her in a class by herself, leading to a degree in "Matrimonethics". Still we take off our hats to "Mrs. L." when it comes to "Koching" for herself an audience, for she is verily a patron of the "drama" and walks in old "Bill" Shakespeare's very footsteps. Of course, you all want to share this page in the Annual with her, but the Editor, out of deference to Chapel Hill convention, rules otherwise. I know that she and "hubby" will forever dwell happily together—on this page of the YACKETY YACK.

FIRST: he has a mighty attractive wife which is more than most of us can boast about at present; second: although he appears thoroughly domesticated and "matrimoniated", we have never been able to discover any rolling pin bruises upon his visible surface. Now Chapel Hill gossip hath it that their life is one of "peaches and cream", and Chapel Hill gossip—well, it is no worse than any other kind. "TED" is a very rare and unique individual of the Class of '20. He has met with many obstacles during his four years with us, the most important being the failure of his eyes to respond to intensive study, the S. A. T. C. and English IV. He has conquered them all with the same determination and said "Ted's" chief hobby is civil engineering; his favorite pastime is telling jokes; his specialty is math, which he absorbs with the ease of a master, coaching a little for diversion. The only thing about his future that worries him is where he will ever be able to get audiences and subjects for his practical jokes when he gets down in South America as an engineer.

"BILL Cody" has two thoughts in life—one is himself, and the other I haven't the heart to divulge. He has two passions, one the Saturday Evening Post, and the other "queens". Among other things he is a good student, being partial to philosophy, and is one of Horace's boys who climbs to the pinnacle and cries aloud "Eureka!" "Bill", besides being a good student and a good fellow, is quite a dreamer and idealist, and we feel sure that some day his dreams will become reality under the guidance of his active brain.

He always has time for anything he wishes to do, whether it be working in the gym, going out for track, playing football or entering into a "Bull session". Percy is of the quiet type; he does not talk too much, but when he does speak, he says something worth listening to. If there is anybody in the class who has finished an E. "J. B." might stand for many things, but the fact that it is the same handle as that attached to the hero of apple tree fame—one John Brown—is known only to the inner circle. "Mac" has become a fixture on the top floor of Old East, having resided there throughout his college career. He has two claims to distinction: First, he is known as "The Left-handed Wonder" at the card table, because he will play bridge when he has nothing else to do; second, he has majored in math, and come out at the long end of the bargain. Such a record, along with his vacation experiences in Akron, at Plattsburg, and with the State Highway Commission, should see him through his three-score-and-ten without any serious upsets.

BUT for "Bill", the weaker sex of the community would die of boredom. He knows 'em all and can be seen most any time strolling across the village green with a couple in tow. As an electrical engineer and contriver of shocking machines—well, never sit down in his room without first cutting all the wires leading to your chair. When he's not busy with his other amusements (studying is one of them), he can be found jogging around the cinder path or pulling cleats in the gym—at either of which he's pretty good. We must not fail to give him due credit for his perseverance, energy and will power, and for his determination to go into his chosen profession duly prepared. THE President of the Di Society threw his gold-headed cane on the floor, leaped nimbly off the president's rostrum and faced the assembled gathering of Di's, whose jaws, individually and collectively, were beginning to drop. In fact, the whole assemblage was somewhat pop-eyed at this procedure, for the president of that venerable organization was doing an unheard-of thing—taking part in the general debate. "Nat" refuses to abide by custom, simply because it is bald-headed and has venerable gray whiskers. He even takes a fiendish delight in introducing new suggestions, which tendency has led many to believe that he is a blood relation of "Trotzky."

And Moore has also taken his part in educating the youth of our State, having spent more than three years at this business. His college life has been one of interruptions and vicissitudes. Originally with the Class of '18, he was forced to drop out for a few years at the end of his Sophomore year, but he managed with Summer Schools and correspondence courses, to make up a year, and so is now back on the job to finish with the Class of '20. "ADMIRAL"—can anyone ever forget the long, tall "weinnie" man from Alabama, who besides graduating in three years, got his commission in the Army and is still able to make enough money on the side selling "hot dogs"—well, he's saving up for a mighty good reason, who I believe lives in Asheville. "Admiral" has two great ambitions: one has dark hair and brown eyes, the other bears the inscription "In God We Trust". We feel sure that his genial smile and unlimited energy will carry him, what do you say, boys, "All the way?" Yes, "All the way!"

HENRY BELK SIMPSON

Age, 25; Weight, 178; Height, 5 feet 11 inches

Di Society; North Carolina Club; Union County Club, President (3, 4); Scrub Football (2); Glee Club (4); Winner Carr Fellowship.

HENRY matriculated with the Class of '10, but answering the call of his country, he joined us last spring. He goes at his class work in the same style which made him an Artillery Officer risen from the ranks. While away, someone told him that he could sing, and this year his "mellow" voice has been no small factor in the success of the Glee Club. When he is gone, we will miss his pleasant smile, and the "League" will have lost a bulwark, for "religiously" he is one of the "faithful few".

IF you ever want to know anything about "Ven's" chemistry, ask Roy Hobart—he knows, as he has shown by his record. In a time when chemistry "bulls" were falling by the wayside, due to the S. A. T. C. and other ailments, Hobart came triumphantly through his third year of chemical engineering with a string of "ones", incidentally earning a Phi Beta Kappa Key in the process, and with it all he has been classed among those few who can properly be called "good eggs". His happy-go-lucky smile would win your friendship at once, especially if he has just returned from one of those frequent week-end trips that he takes, and it has won him a warm spot in the hearts of the Class of '20.

"JOE" is an excellent hot-air artist and a psychology "bull". His niche in the Hall of Fame is due to the fact that he hails from Morganton. All of his energy is devoted to studying German under "Kent" when he is not writing to that best girl back home. "Joe" is modest and retiring, and spends most of his time in academic pursuits. He has sterling qualities, and true worth as a fine and gentlemanly character.

WERE his abilities restricted to the gridiron, the social occasion, and the class room (these are his specialties), "Toddie" would be a large-sized man. Having in addition to all this an everlasting good nature and a rich admixture of friendliness, he has won the universal esteem of his fellows. Arthur has also shown great ability along musical lines, for he is another one of "that musical Winston-Salem bunch". We can tell no more of him—he doesn't talk about himself and wouldn't grant the reporter an interview.

EARL is the kind of fellow that grows on you. The longer you know him the more you like and admire him. He is always quiet and unassuming, yet persistent and a good student, and he possesses that rare trait which we call consistency. But "Varsity" is a good athlete as well as a good student. His value as a track man was recognized when he was elected captain of this year's Varsity Track Team. Earl has set his goal high in the business world, and he will certainly attain it if he climbs in life as he pole-vaults in college.

OUR idea of animated conversation would be a joint discussion between "Shorty" and the widely known Egyptian Sphinx. Scintillating wit and repartee of a briskness that would get Mark Twain himself enthused would be the outcome, that is, if the Sphinx didn't get mad and quit. Due to four profitable years as a gymnasium shark, he looks somewhat like a pocket edition of "John Q. Hercules", and so well has he wrought in class room and study that the exclusive key is ever with him. Perhaps the most enthusiastic thing about him is his straightforwardness. He looks at you straight and talks to you straight and then straightway goes and does just what he has said he will do, and yet "Shorty" is withal a quiet fellow, dignified and popular.

FLETCHER came to us from the "Old Dominion", but that doesn't keep him from having the Carolina spirit. "Shorty", for that's what the girls call him, has recently become one of our leading ladies' men, and any time you don't find him with the ladies you may look for him at the Chemistry Building. For he is a chemistry "bull", and can spot one to perfection to pass 1-2 Chemistry, as many a poor, ignorant Freshman has learned at the expense of only a few coaching classes. But Fletcher is good-hearted and straightforward, and always gives the Freshmen their money's worth, in spots.

"STEVE"—long, lean, lanky, learned, likeable and an 'I' of a good fellow if you know how to take him, which isn't hard. He adopted the Tar Baby, mothered it and spanked it until it grew into a vigorous child, laughing its way all over the State and the South into national prominence. With it all he has that one human, masculine failing, but with our elongated young hero it takes the form of the 'more the merrier'. Come all ye beautiful young girls—here's Henry, our ideal of a typical college gentleman. Don't gather in too closely, for, being of a temperamental nature, he's yours forever if you do.

Age, 22; Weight, 150; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

Phi Society; Vance County Club, Secretary; Class Basketball, Captain, Manager, All-Class Baseball; Class Football; Varsity Baseball Squad.

"M. L." is the "two in one" wonder of the class. He goes on geology and is downtown at the same time, that is, if brother "M. B." happens to be on the Hill. He is renowned in the Phi Society for the rich line he often reels off. We would perhaps say that his line helped him to pass twenty-nine hours of work, had we not known that he was really brilliant. Happiness is his ideal. We heartily agree that he will secure this should we find him at the Summer School again, or even at Kittrell, pulling the bell cord over a "hay burner".

North Carolina Club; Alamance-Caswell County Club; Medical Society; Freshman Baseball Squad; Varsity Baseball Squad (2, 3).
Φ X.

VANCE is another of our good-looking members who is probably as well known on the Normal campus as at Carolina. He never allows his studies to interfere with his pleasure, but for all that, he usually finds time to pass them all with good grades. For three years he ran a correspondence school for girls—then he flunked nineteen of them in our Senior year in order to devote more thought to his chosen profession—medicine. A hard worker, popular with the class, and above all, gifted with a fluent line, Swift is sure to make a combination of science and athletics harmonize with a successful life.

"JOSH" has at last achieved his utopia. For three years he fought with French, endeavoring to clear the way for medicine, and under various profs, but he could not "harmonize" to the required degree. Finally, with occasional (?) coachings by a fair "Summer Schoolite", he struck his stride, and this year he landed with full force in "Ike's" schoolhouse. He has been there ever since, thereby depriving us of a large part of his congenial companionship. "Josh" is universally liked on the campus—a perfect mixer and a "good egg".

CARY BUNTON TAYLOR
OXFORD, N. C.

Age, 24; Weight, 145; Height, 5 feet 8 inches

Phi Society; Engineering Society; Granville County Club; Secretary (2); Vice-President (3).

"BUCK" is the proper name for this specimen. He is not afraid of anything and when he strikes a snag, he "bucks" it hard and comes out on top. No one ever saw him in a bad humor. Even when he carried a transit to the pump-station and found the eyepiece broken, he came back after another one—smiling. Work doesn't take all of his time, either, for he can slice a cake or cut the cards as easily as he can survey the campus. "Buck" has that rare and glorious quality of being able to laugh as much at the jokes on himself as at those which he plays on others.

ELIZABETH MURPHY TAYLOR
MORGANTON, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 112; Height, 5 feet 6 inches

Maryland College, '16-'18; U. N. C. Women's Association; Carolina Playmakers.

IN speaking of Elizabeth's dramatic ability, someone once said that she had the incomparable merit of being an amateur and acting like a professional. This might well be applied to her life as well as to her ability to act. We all know that there is no one more guileless, yet she "vamps" us in a most professional manner. "Razz" is a very good student, but she finds time to take part in all our gaieties and to star in the productions of the Playmakers. Everybody likes "Razz".

HAYWOOD MAURICE TAYLOR

A X Σ.

"DOOLEY" is a delver in the black art, and can generally be found riding molecules for a "one", for chemically he has few peers. His abilities are not confined to the lab, for his histrionic talent, shown with the Dramatic Club, rivals his chemical ability. Haywood went to Plattsburg and later "looied" at Penn State. He fought well, for each day brings forth its sweet-scented pink envelope—"another Penn State co-ed vamped". "Spike" is a likeable chap, and his fine, gentlemanly qualities have won him a host of friends who will ever wish him luck as he pursues his work with Du Pont.

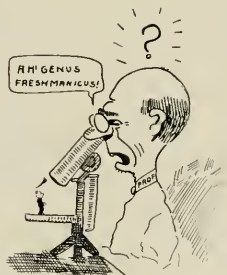

EVERETT SIMON TEAGUE

WAY back in the dark ages, Teague entered the Class of '17, but he dropped out three years and joined us, in fact and in spirit. This, you know, was in our Senior year. He shines in being a good, steady student. He takes life calmly, has a happy, quiet way about him, and never worries. He is a steadfast member of '20, and true to the core.

HARVEY, in spite of difficulties, such as bad eyes and love, has stuck it out for four years and is now looking forward to the time when he can present a sheepskin to the object of the above-mentioned love. He started out to be a chemical engineer, but decided last year that such a life would keep him too much away from his girl, so he is now acquiring an A. B. If you are a woman-hater, just talk to Harvey for a few minutes and you will soon become convinced that married life is the only practical, economical life in which to indulge. Lacking in the "bigness" with which the name of Terry was introduced to the university, he is nevertheless possessed of a bigness of mind and character that has brought him achievement both in his work and in the acquisition of friends.

JAMES FRANK TILSON

BILTMORE, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 150; Height, 5 feet 9 inches

Buncombe County Club.

"HANDSOME Frank" is one of those good-looking boys that we don't often see at Carolina. Sincere, modest, affable, Frank has made many friends. He has entered fully into the life about him, and always displays a good spirit. Although diligently pursuing his studies preparatory to entering medicine, he never becomes so absorbed in "Froggy's" zoology that he hasn't time to fulfill his functions as a ladies' man. He is serious, however, when it comes to German 1-2, and says that he is going to capture a "dip" if he has to take "Eddie's" 3-4 for the next ten years.

SHORT of stature, glib of tongue, dynamic of movement, quick of temper, brilliant of mind and filled with enough ideas for a thousand of his size—such is "Top". To see him walking across the campus, loaded down with law volumes, one would get the impression that he was an enthusiastic disciple of Blackstone; but when you get to know him better, you come to the conclusion that "D. D." is only taking law as a business guide. He intends to become a big business man in the realm of transportation, so that he can get married sooner.

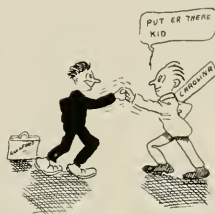

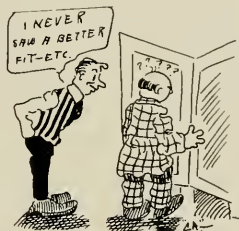

FOLGER LAFAYETTE TOWNSEND, JR.

Age, 21. Weight, 145; Height, 5 feet 11 inches

Di Society; Rockingham County Club; Class Basketball (3, 4).

AFTER roaming around over this planet looking for the proper place to educate himself, Folger finally settled on the University of North Carolina, and has never since regretted his decision. He tried Guilford his first two years, Trinity during the famous S. A. T. C. days, and then came to us as an unusual subject for the development of the Carolina spirit. He has made good here in spite of this handicap. Folger is one of our best-read students. It is difficult to find a novel that he cannot converse fluently upon. And withal, he is justly dubbed "good egg". What more can we say?

RICHARD STANFORD TRAVIS, JR.

Associate Editor YACKETY YACK (3); Glee Club (1, 2, 3); German Club; Commencement Ball Manager (4); Coop; Gorgon's Head. K A.

"STAN", "Stanley", "Gaitor"—he first came into the limelight in his Freshman year when he appeared on the Glee Club programme in Gerrard Hall as a soloist. "Stan" is the third of the Weldon trio and was voted the best looking of our good-looking class. He has never taken to studying super-seriously, because he hasn't found it absolutely necessary; and yet he has made nearly as many grades in the first two shelves as in the last two. To say "Stan" is a ladies' man would be putting it mildly. Being a "cat" with a guitar he always holds his audience (preferably girls) spellbound. We have always liked "Gaitor".

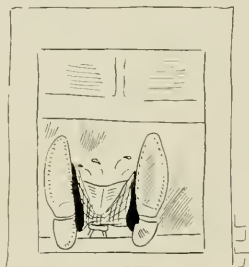

LUTHER WILEY UMSTEAD
STEM, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 180; Height, 6 feet 1 inch

Phi Society; Granville County Club, Secretary; Varsity Football Squad.

"LAUGH and the world laughs with you", such is "Luke's" philosophy of life and that is why his goodfellowship is sought by so many members of the Class of '20. His big body covers a bigger heart, full of wit, humor and good nature. His face shows his character, but one must see his feet to understand his foundation as a good sport. If there is a joke in the air, "Um" is generally the first to find it out. Voted the laziest in the class, he nevertheless manages to keep up with his work without the least trouble. And with it all, he has a splendid philosophy of life which will carry him smiling over more than one rough place along life's weary road.

IT isn't often that we like to boast, but we just must tell you about Louise. She is not at all susceptible to flattery (in fact, she scorns our oft-repeated praises), and being a professor's daughter, we humor her in this also. And again, you must know that the reputation of a good student never seems to interfere with those pleasant smiles and words. When ability is needed to take charge of a difficult situation we are too apt to quit "in favor of Miss Venable". A good sport and a real friend to us all, but she scorns our oft-repeated praises—anyway, I hope you know what we think of her.

CARL HAMPTON WALKER

CARL is a man who carries the courage of his convictions, treating everyone as a gentleman and expecting the same in return. He is both a hard worker and a firm friend, he is the kind of fellow who believes in doing a thing rather than talking about it. At present, he is pursuing one of the hardest courses in college—"Rockology"—and is easily solving all of its hardest problems. It is rumored that he will settle down on a farm after graduation, but we have our doubts, for he is renowned as being one of "Collier's own".

And have you noticed that sleek and prosperous look he is beginning to assume? He is preparing for the time when he will hold a high office in the National City Bank. We won't say that he can't be beaten, for we fear that he will meet his Waterloo in the Income Tax Collector.

THE first evidence we got of "Woolley's" farsightedness and good judgment was the fact that he came all the way from Maryland to this institution. His capacity for work is well shown by this YACKETY YACK, and by the presence of a "key" tied to his Ingersoll. In spite of this, the ladies have not been neglected, as many in the vicinity of Faculty Row will testify. We don't know much about him away from the Hill, but Washburn brings back startling reports from New York City. All of these things serve to make him one of the best men in the class, and the National City Bank will acquire a valuable addition in the person of "Woolley".

"WOODROW" is not very often seen on the campus. He is too busy down at the Chemistry Building among the test-tubes and beakers. Physical chemistry is his favorite study, and very much of his time is devoted to it. Not all of "Jake's" time is given to his favorite study, however. He loves very much to philosophize about the fairer sex and to take up his gun for a little week-end shooting trip. White is a lover of true beauty, and a great admirer of poetry and the arts in general. Some day he will discover something more explosive than T. N. T. Our best wishes are with our classmate and "chemical-explorer Woodrow".

With it all, he's "Doc" to every one on the campus, and the most modest man that ever kissed maiden. Davidson reared him; Carolina claimed and cherished him; and the Class of '20 is proud of her acquisition.

EDITING the Tar Heel, winning Horace's philosophy prize when only a Junior, writing plays and then showing the world how they should be acted—they are all alike to this young Shakespeare. Last year he played the leading role in the "Midnight Frolic" at "Gooch's Winter Palace", but this year it's the leading role on the "Carolina Shipping Board". But, seriously speaking, "Buck" is a great, big fellow. He can do more between 8:25 and 8:30 than the rest of us can do all day, and it is no wonder that he is classed as a genius.

BAGGETT'S college career embodies the spirit which President Graham was pleased to call "nothing second best". He has conclusively proven his abilities in many respects, having played a conspicuous part in campus life. In every phase of his student activity, the marked ability of leadership has been brought to the forefront. Furthermore, he is a man of big, democratic ideals of service—he senses the beauty of a life of fraternity. Finally, he's strictly "on the square", and wears the stainless garments of a gentleman.

"HAPPY" is a wonder on the football field, and he has had the honor of having been on the team that has defeated Virginia twice in as many attempts. But in law, he seems to be as good as in football. You know, he tried reforming down at Rocky Mount. It was a near tragedy. They say "Hap" caught the first train out, and didn't care which way it went. With such an eye for business, we predict a great future for him in law.

FREDERICK OSCAR BOWMAN
CRANBERRY, N. C.

Age, 27; Weight, 175; Height, 5 feet 8 inches

B.L., Berea College, '14; President Senior Law Class; President Clark Law Club; North Carolina Club.

Φ Δ Φ.

"JUDGE" dropped in upon us quite informally last spring, after having been discharged from the Army, but was not long in forming friendships. Robust of figure, strong and active of intellect, and withal courteous and kind to his associates, he is of the type of manhood that finds a way or makes one. He attended Berea College in Kentucky where he obtained his college training, but he distinctly and unequivocally asserts that both by birth and by choice he is a "Tar Heel born, and a Tar Heel bred".

HENRY EMMETT BREWER, Jr.
ROCKY MOUNT, N. C.

Age, 20; Weight, 160; Height, 5 feet 6 inches

Nash County Club; German Club; Cabin.

Σ Ν.

"JUDGE", "Chief Justice", "Beef"—to any of the above he will answer, and if you are in trouble this portly young gentleman from Rocky Mount is only too glad to help. He came to us two years ago from N. C. State, having decided that Winston-Salem was nearer to Chapel Hill than to Raleigh. Central's inability to get a long-distance call through occasionally is his only worry. Care free and easy-going, he wears a smile which few can resist.

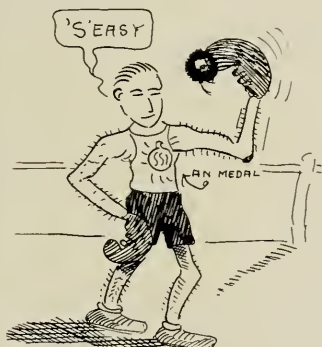

EDWIN BRIDGES
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Age, 26; Weight, 145; Height, 5 feet 11 inches

Secretary Junior Law Class; Mecklenburg County Club; Class Football; North Carolina Club; A. E. F. Club.

Θ X.

WE do not exaggerate by saying that in Edwin we find a constant source of all information. His strong personality, together with all the qualities that go to make up a true gentleman and a sterling friend, have won for him friends everywhere. He is a student of note, an orator of repute, and above all a true sport. Some day when he tempers down his social proclivities, the world will look with amazement upon the materialized dreams of this resourceful youth.

LOUIS HEYL CLEMENTS
SALISBURY, N. C.

Age, 25; Weight, 140; Height, 5 feet 7 inches

Glee Club, '14-'16; Band, '15-'16; Gym Team, '16-'19; Secretary German Club, '17; President Battle Law Club.

N A Φ; Φ Δ Θ.

"LOUIE", better known as "Clem", is another of the old guard who left in '17 when Herr Hohenzollern was dreaming funny dreams. When war was declared, "Louie" became excited for the first time in his life and left college at once for a training camp. He soon won his commission, and after two years of hard fighting in South Carolina, England, France and Germany, he is back for his LL.B. A good student, a fine mixer, an accomplished musician, he is sure to make a mark for himself in the legal world.

CHARLES RUFUS DANIEL
WELDON, N. C.

Age, 25; Weight, 162; Height, 5 feet 8 inches

Phi Society; Y. M. C. A.; Football Squad, '14; Coach, Freshman Football and Baseball, '15, '16, '17; German Club; Leader Gimghoul Ball, '17; President Pan-Hellenic Council, '16, '17; President James Iredell Law Club, '19, '20; Oasis; Coop; Gimghoul. K A.

"CHARLIE" is a quiet, unobtrusive sort—the type that one expects to find in the ideal Carolina man, and campus politics have no fascination for him. His versatile personality and many-sided abilities are manifest whenever he favors us with his presence. In the ball-room or class-room, in athletics or along the Rhine, he is a "star" performer. To know him is to expect great things of him.

HUGH DORTCH
GOLDSBORO, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 168; Height, 5 feet 8½ inches

Wayne County Club; A. E. F. Club; German Club; Battle Law Club; Varsity Football; Manager Law Basketball; Leader Spring German Club Dance, '20; Wearer of N. C.; Pan-Hellenic Council; Coop; Mountaur; Gorgon's Head. Z Psi.

HUGH has the distinction of being the first Carolina man to enlist when war was declared. Whether in the Law Building, on the football field, or the ball-room floor he is sure to shine. His ever-ready wit and modesty make him well liked by everybody. That same spirit of fight and determination which won for him his N. C. last fall, will some day place him up among the foremost barristers of the State.

WALTER CONNOR FEIMSTER, JR.
NEWTON, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 165; Height, 6 feet

Φ Δ Φ; Σ Δ Ε.

AFTER having successfully completed his literary course, Walter is back studying law, and playing baseball in the spring as a side line; for the former he will receive an LL.B., and for the latter, another star will be added to the collection underneath the old N. C. monogram on his sweater. If his career in life is as successful as his college career, many of us may soon cast votes for him for governor, and—yea, verily—perhaps for even higher positions.

ELLIS SCOTT HALE
MOUNT AIRY, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 148; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

Trinity College, '16-'18; Surry County Club, Treasurer (4); German Club; Glee Club (4); Mandolin Club (4); Pan-Hellenic Council (4); Coop.

Β Ω Σ; Φ Δ Φ, Π Κ Α.

SCOTT'S pleasing personality and spirit of goodfellowship have gained a host of friends for him in the year and a half which he has spent on the Hill. After completing his academic work at Trinity, he went into the Army, where he soon won a commission. When the war was over, Scott came to Carolina to study law. In spite of his fondness for the social life, he has not let pleasure interfere with his work—a trait which promises great success as a lawyer.

JOHN BRIGHT HILL

Φ Δ Φ; K Σ.

"J. B." is a good mixer, a good student and a well rounded man. He has a good insight into the fine points of the law and is always ready to argue some new point. He is a forceful speaker and a leader in the Law Club work. A good foundation in the fundamentals of law received at Harvard, coupled with his personality and ability, forms a rare combination which will make him equal to any task or responsibility.

HINES ARTHUR JONES
GREENSBORO, N. C.

Age, 19; Weight, 185; Height, 5 feet 11 inches

Guilford County Club; Di Society; Manning Law Club, Clerk; North Carolina Club; Freshman Football; Varsity Track Team; Varsity Football Squad.

ARTHUR, the youngest member of our class, has divided his time between the pigskin and the sheepskin. His willingness to place his athletic strength upon the altar of his Alma Mater and his determination to achieve knowledge have caused him to be well known among the student body and have won for him the admiration and respect of all with whom he has come in contact. With the ability and determination to succeed, that he possesses, we count on him to show us a real lawyer.

Mecklenburg County Club; Horner Club.
Φ Δ Φ; Σ X.

"KING George VI" has the ability to look wiser, at times (pourquoi is a secret known only to himself) than the most learned of learned judges. George is a familiar figure on the campus, which he has frequented, "Io! these many years". Being from the self-styled "metropolis of the Carolinas", he is naturally a little proud of answering the query "What part of the State are you from?" in a most nonchalant and assured tone—"Charlotte"—with the "of course" implied. It might be added that our subject is one of the sharks in Pat Winston's insurance class. A loyal friend, a booster of what is best at Carolina, a square comrade—here's luck and success to you, "King George"!

DENNIS BRYAN LEATHERWOOD
WAYNESVILLE, N. C.

Age, 23; Weight, 150; Height, 5 feet 11 inches
Di Society; Sophomore Debate; Haywood County Club, President; North Carolina Club; Class Baseball (1, 2).

"TO know him is to like him". Well may his classmates look upon him with pride. Dennis has every essential that goes to make up a true leader of men. He is a marked student, an eloquent speaker and a profound and deep thinker. He possesses a mind of unusual brilliancy, one which is ever alert and keen in coping with legal problems. In this man we see imbedded the influential power and ideals which will blaze the trail for a successful career.

JOHN HILL PAYLOR
LAURINBURG, N. C.

Age, 23; Weight, 140; Height, 5 feet 8 inches

Scotland-Marlboro County Club; Battle Law Club.

JOHN had been with us but a few days when we recognized in him an unusual legal talent. He is a sincere and persistent worker, and above all a man that can be relied upon. Men of his type ride no skyrockets to glory, toot no horns of self-praise, yet after all are foremost in life's battle. His friendly nature and splendid character have won him many friends. We are bound to hear great things of John.

ELY JACKSON PERRY
KINSTON, N. C.

Age, 23; Weight, 137; Height, 5 feet 7 inches

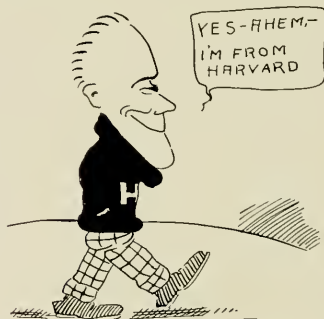

A.B., '17; Phi Society; President Tennis Association (4); President Lenoir County Club (4); Class Tennis Team (3, 4); Adviser Battle Law Club; German Club.

Φ Δ Φ; Σ X.

IN college, Ely's specialties were philosophy and business, and now add a natural legal mind with two years' knowledge received at the Harvard Law School, and you will have a closed corporation with nothing lacking. He inspects the papers, daily, and is never happier than when talking business or law. A jovial and generous disposition, a lover of high principles and square dealings, a sound thinker and a steady worker—with such a combination and with his ability to handle business, can success escape him?

Age, 19; Weight, 140; Height, 6 feet

Phi Society, Vice-President (3); Sophomore Debate; Junior Oratorical Contest; Class Baseball (1, 2, 3); Class Basketball (1, 2); German Club.

GATES lays claim to this member of our class, and well may she be proud of her claim. With the fair sex "Pitt" is a star. In the classroom, in the Literary Society, and in other activities he has shown those qualities which have revealed him as a good friend and a painstaking worker. He leaves behind him here a record of marked achievements, and as he goes forth to grapple with the problems of his chosen profession, we predict for him an equal success.

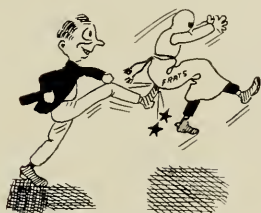

SIDNEY EDWARD PRUDEN
GREENSBORO, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 135; Height, 5 feet 8 inches

Guilford County Club; German Club; Law Club; Class Basketball; Track Squad; Cabin.

A T O.

"SID" came to Carolina in the dark days of the S. A. T. C., and served Uncle Sam somewhere in the region of the New Dorms. After being discharged from the Service, he entered the Law School where he has since remained, making a very creditable record. In the Law School he had the name of "Judge" thrust upon him, and by which he is known on the campus and throughout the State. "Judge" is a man of sterling character, and the fact that he is from Greensboro is nothing to his discredit. A social lion during Junior Week, a "bull" during exams, a good scout on all occasions—that's "Judge"—one of the most popular and most capable on the Carolina green.

Age, 23; Weight, 145; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

Phi Society; Johnston County Club, Treasurer '11, Secretary '21, Vice-President '31, President '41; North Carolina Club; Ruffin Law Club; Treasurer Law School; Wake Forest College, '13, '14.

Φ Δ Φ.

COURTEOUS in manner and pleasant in speech, we liked Frank from the beginning. In his fine sense of fair play and social comradeship, in his power to think straight and keep his head in trying situations, in his ability to apply himself to the task before him—be it courtship, "bull session", or study of the law—and in his keen judgment of men and affairs, we find the basis of the esteem in which we hold him and our confidence in his complete success.

KATHRINE McDIARMID ROBINSON

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.

Age, 26; Weight, 130. Height, 5 feet 7 inches

A.B., North Carolina College for Women, '13; Columbia University Summer Sessions, '17, '19; Washington College of Law, '18, '19; U. N. C. Women's Association; Ruffin Law Club.

KATHRINE is a happy combination of a striking personality, a keen sense of humor and the power of making friends. Although a great talker, she has proven that she can hold a still tongue when she wants to, by the confidential position she held with a secret governmental service during the war. She has also shown her executive ability by the successful way she managed the co-ed's 'Hallowe'en entertainment. To picture her as one of the best business lawyers in the State, would only be what she deserves, but we fear that, like others of her sex, she will follow Cupid's call and grace the home in a truly womanly manner.

BYNUM EDGAR WEATHERS
SHELBY, N. C.

Age, 24; Weight, 145; Height, 5 feet 9½ inches

Di Society; Cleveland County Club, President; Piedmont Club, Corresponding Secretary; North Carolina Club; Dramatic Association; Law Librarian (3, 4); Square and Compass Club; Knighthood Klan; Battle Law Club.

IN the Library of the Law Building, where there is "many a quaint and curious volume of forgotten law", Bynum is most often to be found, reading his letters or what the judges have to say. Bynum, together with the other members of the Law School, will tell you that the life of a lawyer is one of application. He is an authority on the subject of insurance, and will probably specialize in that branch of the law. He likes the girls, too, and says he is going to marry a pretty one some day. A good speaker and a good mixer, he cannot help but rise in his chosen profession.

"JOJO" has those traits which are characteristic of only of leaders of men, and is well fitted to make a successful attorney-at-law. His consistent playing on the baseball field for three years will long be remembered by lovers of the diamond at Carolina. "Jo's" good looks have caused many a sensation among the fair sex, and it is a wonder that they have not carried him off long ago. We expect to see him at the top of his profession in the course of a few years.

HIS legs may be slightly bowed and his tongue get twisted under stress and strain of quizzes, but "Eddie" goes sublimely on. He works hard, seriously and conscientiously, and yet finds time to spread joy among his friends and to plunge into the social whirl head first, but he always comes up bright and early on class the next day. He is a delightful combination of work, play and good fellowship; and as a loyal friend he is liked and admired by all. As a dance leader he excels. If he handles his future patients as skillfully and carefully as he does Dr. McNider's sick rabbit, he will be a second Hippocrates.

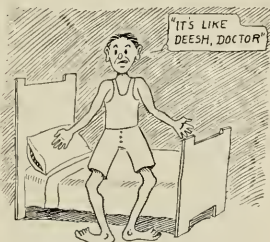

THOMAS CLAYTON BREWER
MARSHVILLE, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 150; Height, 5 feet 9 inches

North Carolina Club; Union County Club, Vice-President (3); Medical Society, Treasurer (4).

K Ψ.

"T. C." is often heard to boast that Tom Brewer and Tom Bickett are both Union County men. Evidently, then, it must be a great place. "T. C." devoted the greater part of his first two years in college to his social development, but since medicine caught him, this tendency has been largely arrested. However, it is said that even now he may be occasionally found curling (?) his hair, so we doubt if the impulse is entirely overcome. "Tom" is a continuous worker, and has a splendid memory, which qualities go to make him one of our most dependable students.

"E. W." is from way down East by the Atlantic, where lives the girl that he loves "down by the sea". Vigorous and energetic, he is a fast worker, and succeeds in doing his job well and getting it behind him. He is brimful of life and pep, and a good fellow whom we all like. His dynamic force will help him in his lifework.

FRANCIS MANN CLARK
MIDDLETOWN, N. C.

Age, 20; Weight, 155; Height, 5 feet 11 inches

"SPIRAGYRA" is a splendid student and a hard worker. His attitude to his work is fine. On class he gives clear-cut, good answers that please the doctors. Full of life and fun, he jollies his companions along and his hearty laugh echoes through the Medical Building. With his love for his chosen profession, joined to his ability and ambition, he will surely make good.

"H. S." has gone quietly about his duties here, and has worked deliberately and wonderfully well. Deep-voiced and serious, he has the calm of his native mountains. Presiding over the Medical Society, he has shown that he possesses a dignity that will become him well in his life work. We know that he is a true friend, and that men can trust him with their lives and their honor.

GORDON BRYANT CROWELL

Age, 24; Weight, 150; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

German Club; Manager Track Team (4); Athletic Council (4); Commencement Ball Manager (4); Pan-Hellenic Council; Medical Society, Vice-President; Infirmary Assistant.

II K A.

HERE is a man whose most distinctive characteristic is the habit of getting what he goes after. On the day when Gordon was discharged from the Army, after eleven months' Service overseas, he started back to the Hill to study medicine. Dr. Mangum will vouch for the fact that Gordon passed anatomy in the shortest time in which it has ever been done here. A strong personality, plus this habit of success, is going to make "Doc" a big man in the medical world.

VERNON LYNDON ELEY

Age, 27; Weight, 174; Height, 6 feet

Phi Society; Medical Society; North Carolina Club; Northampton-Hertford County Club

SPEAKING of perseverance, "Slick" has shown us what it means. It is a rare man who can work for a month on an unknown in chemistry and come away with an unruffled temper, but "Slick" is the man. He has a mania for big words, and has spent a summer in Baltimore, so he talks a great deal. But a good doctor should know more than medicine, and we feel sure his patients will never suffer from lack of entertainment.

NORMAN is recognized as one of the steadiest men on the Hill. He has shown in his quiet way that he is every inch a man and fit for a "man's work. Although he comes from another State, he holds Carolina very dear, as shown by his athletic record before he entered medicine, and by his interest in every vital question concerning the university. In the capacity of Student Councilman he has shown his squareness and ability to appreciate the other man's point of view. Norman has both purpose and determination, and will let no obstacle stand in the way of success in his chosen profession.

CAREY is not only scientific, for he has cultivated the aesthetic in his life. He is a musician and loves the fine arts, being especially fond of literature. He has developed a splendid physique by his faithful work in the gym. Carey is very conscientious and has much depth of character. We all know he is true-blue and admire him. He is a well-rounded citizen who can be trusted through thick and thin to make the world a better place in which to live.

"ED", after vacillating between V. M. I. and Virginia for several years, finally landed on the Hill, and we were all glad to have him. He entered the first year med class, but didn't allow medicine to keep him from being known. By entering wholeheartedly into the spirit of this place and readjusting himself, he has shown everyone that he is capable of handling hard tasks. "Ed" also shines in the social world, and his prowess along this line is well shown by the way he wears a dress suit and olive oil, also by the scented letters of various hues which he receives. We haven't seen much of him this year, but we know that he is in good hands. A combination of frankness, geniality and squareness, assures "Ed" success anywhere.

JAMES MEREDITH KETCHIE

Age, 20; Weight, 185; Height, 5 feet 5 inches

Rowan County Club, Secretary-Treasurer (1), President (2); Medical Society; Class Cheer Leader (4).

K Ψ.

"BEEF" has demonstrated that weight below the belt guided by weight above the eyes constitutes an irresistible driving force. Consequently, he has never been thrown for a loss at examination time, and his gains have been uninterrupted. He comes from Salisbury, has worked for the Southern, and so believes he can diagnose and repair any ailment peculiar to locomotives. This training, together with a jovial disposition, should aid in his treatment of the human machine.

THE Class of '20 is lucky to have a man like "Shorty" to graduate with it. He left school in '16, but returned last fall and resumed his work in medicine. He did not allow this handicap to interfere with his chances of finishing, but by hard and steady work showed himself capable of overcoming even the hardest difficulties. He has proven also that a man's chances of success are not dependent upon his stature, and will undoubtedly make good in life.

ANDREW PUREFOY NEWCOMB, JR.
HENDERSON, N. C.

Age, 20; Weight, 120; Height, 5 feet 4 inches

Trinity College, '15, '17; Vance County Club; Medical Society;
Assistant in Anatomy.
Φ X

"NEWKIE", as we like to call him because of his slight stature and boyish appearance, came to us from Trinity at the beginning of his Junior year. He came to learn medicine, too, and he immediately became lost among the mysteries and debris of the "stiff hall", but he later emerged at the head of the anatomy class, and was made Assistant in Anatomy as a result of his industry. Success is assured for a man of his caliber, and we are proud to regard him as one of our own.

WILLIAM BLOUNT NORMENT
TRINITY, N. C.

Age, 20; Weight, 128; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

Freshman Debating Club; Di Society; Randolph County Club; North Carolina Club; Medical Society.

K Ψ.

"BILL" is a doctor by inheritance, and the ladies say he already has the professional temperament and appearance. "Bill" has the utmost confidence in man, and believes everybody tells him the truth. It is rumored that he is shrewd at bargaining, too, hence his nickname—"Jew". With all of these qualifications, his road to a successful professional career must be a broad and open one.

SAMUEL ROYALL NORRIS
JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

Age, 23; Weight, 135; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (1, 2, 3); YACKETY YACK Board (2, 3); Greater Council (3); Vice-President Junior Class (3); President First Year "Meds"; Pan-Hellenic Council (2, 3); German Club, Secretary-Treasurer (3, 4); Assistant Leader Sophomore Hop; Minotaur; Gorgon's Head.

Ω Δ; Φ X; Φ Δ Θ.

THE war did one good thing, anyway, by handing over "Peck" to us from '18, and '18's loss was sure our big gain. Of course "Jazz" was an aviator and such a good one that they made him an instructor. Where the bright lights shine, there also we find our redheaded "jazz baby". Never on hand but always there with the goods, "Peck" is our most brilliant student. Happy-go-lucky and care free, he takes in medicine as he has taken us all in with his goodfellowship. We just hope the tar will stick to this pep box from the Alligator State, so he will stay with us always, for such a combination is much too rare to lose.

FRANKLIN LIMER PAYNE
RALEIGH, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 165; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

Phi Society, Secretary (2); Medical Society; German Club;
Assistant in Pharmacology (4).

Φ X.

"ALL work and no play makes Jack a dull boy", but not so with Limer. One of our best students, his steady work has won him a good class record and incidentally the Assistantship in Pharmacology as well. They call him "Owl", and he must be one, considering what he can accomplish in one night. He is in the front ranks.

JAMES LEWIS POSTON
STATESVILLE, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 140; Height, 6 feet 2 inches

"POSTUM" loves the social side of life, enjoying to the fullest, dances and social functions, but he works very faithfully. He takes great pleasure in his friends, and has a polish and gentleness that help him get along with people. Steadfast and true, faithful, clear-headed and persevering, he will be a valued addition to the medical profession.

JAMES GRAHAM RAMSAY
SALISBURY, N. C.

Age, 24; Weight, 183; Height, 6 feet 1 inch

A. B., '17; Di Society; Greater Council (3); Track Team; Vice-President Class (3); Varsity Football (1, 2, 3, 4); Assistant Coach Football (5); Assistant Baseball Manager (3); Treasurer Class (2); Commencement Ball Manager (3, 4); President-Elect Senior "Meds"; '18; German Club; President Senior "Meds"; Coup; Gorgon's Head; Golden Fleece.

Φ X; Δ K E.

FROM the football field and class rooms of academic years, Graham went to the mud and wounds of France. Just as out of the dirt and work of the gridiron he won athletic fame, so out of the mud and blood of France he won the glorious Croix de Guerre. Since his return we find him still the modest, unassuming fellow of old, who does his work well, both in the Medical Building and when helping coach the victorious '19 football team. Physically, mentally, and morally, he is our ideal of the American sportsman that our late President Graham so loved and admired—"a gentleman unafraid".

One Hundred Seventy-four

DAVID JENNINGS ROSE
BENTONVILLE, N. C.

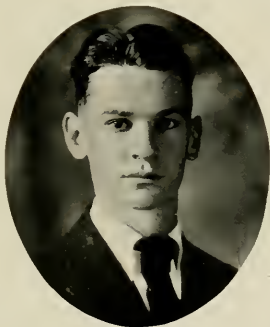

Age, 22; Weight, 170; Height, 5 feet 10 inches

North Carolina Club; Wayne County Club, Secretary and Treasurer (2); Treasurer (3); Class Baseball (1, 3); Secretary-Treasurer Junior Medical Class; Medical Society; Assistant in Pathology.

K Ψ.

ROSE is "peppy". He is here not because he loves the old farm less, but because he loves medicine more. He works vigorously, and blinds the pros rather consistently. His ambition keeps him always on the job, which is a good thing for most young medicos, according to Dr. "Ike". So great has his fame already become, that often when the ambulance drives up to the infirmary, the injured one has been heard to murmur to those nearby, "Dr. Rose—Dr. Rose".

ROBERT ALEXANDER ROSS
MORGANTON, N. C.

Age, 20; Weight, 140; Height, 5 feet 11 inches

Medical Society; German Club; Coop; Gorgon's Head.
Φ X; Α T Ω.

"DADDY" hails from Morganton, and so must have inherited the good qualities of both mountaineer and easterner, for he is one of the best fellows we know. He bids fair to become an authority on pharmacology, since he already knows the dose and properties of every drug related to therapeutics (and some that are not). "Daddy" is a hard worker, but never lets work interfere with pleasure. Upon certain occasions during the year he becomes prominent in social circles, and is one of our most reliable "shakers of the aromatic sock".

ELI RICHARD SALEEBY
WILSON, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 143; Height, 5 feet 5 inches

Phi Society; Simpson Pharmaceutical Society; Medical Society;
Wilson County Club.

ELI often thinks of his Syrian home among the Hills of Lebanon. It is his purpose to serve his native land, when, through his faithful endeavor, he shall possess an M.D. He has an Oriental fineness of feeling to which he has added an Occidental clearness of thinking. Speaking English well, he is a cheerful, hardworking student whom we all like. He served in the S. A. T. C., and although "East is East", and "West is West", he has made them meet.

ANNIE THOMPSON SMITH
DURHAM, N. C.

Trinity College, A.B., '17, A.M., '18; U. N. C. Women's Association; Medical Society.

SHE came to us from Trinity, where she had won many honors. She had acquired the habit of hard work, and has it still. She has taken her place in the class, has demanded no special privileges, but has done her work in a quiet, efficient way. She is frank, industrious and a good student. We know that she will succeed well in the profession which she loves so well.

JOHN COTTON TAYLOE
WASHINGTON, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 200; Height, 5 feet 11 inches

Vice-President Class (1); Greater Council (1); Assistant Manager Baseball (3); Commencement Marshal; Leader Junior Prom; Varsity Football (3); Secretary-Treasurer Pan-Hellenic Council; German Club; Beaufort-Hyde County Club; Oasis; Coop; Gingham; Golden Fleece.

Φ X; Σ N.

THOUGH John started with and still is one of the Class of '18, after his first year of medicine the call was too strong and he left to see a year's service in France as an Infantry Lieutenant. Known by everybody and possessing one of the happiest dispositions on the campus, John is one of our best. Always on hand when the terpsichorean art is indulged in, "Bear" holds his own in tripping the light fantastic with the same ease that he takes a man out of the line. But in football, "Griz" has done his big work. Of a long line of doctors, John promises to outstrip them all if hard work and good scholarship count and to go over the top in medicine as he did in France.

JOHN SKALLY TERRY
ROCKINGHAM, N. C.

Age, 25; Weight, 270; Height, 5 feet 9 1/4 inches

A.B., '18; Permanent President Class of '18; Secretary-Treasurer Class (2); Treasurer (3); Vice-President (4); Di Society, President (4); Vice-President (3); Greater Council (4); Assistant in Zoology (3); Assistant Editor-in-Chief Magazine (4); Assistant Editor Tar Heel (4, 5); Associate Editor YACKETY YACK (4); Advisory Editor Tar Baby (6); Latin-American Club; International Polity Club; Senior Stunt Committee; Medical Society; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (5); Chairman Health Reconstruction Committee North Carolina Club (6); Honors in Language and Literature.

Σ T; Ω Δ; E Φ Δ; Φ X; Φ B K.

THE Class of '18 has priority of claim upon John, but it is during the routine of his subsequent years in medicine that we have come to know him best. In addition to his scientific tendency he possesses a splendid natural literary ability, which we believe he will not permit to atrophy. We look upon him as our logical representative in the field of medical literature, and would not be surprised if—like Holmes—he should some day produce a work which will rank as a classic.

EARL RUNYON TYLER
DURHAM, N. C.

Age, 20; Weight, 140; Height, 5 feet 9 inches

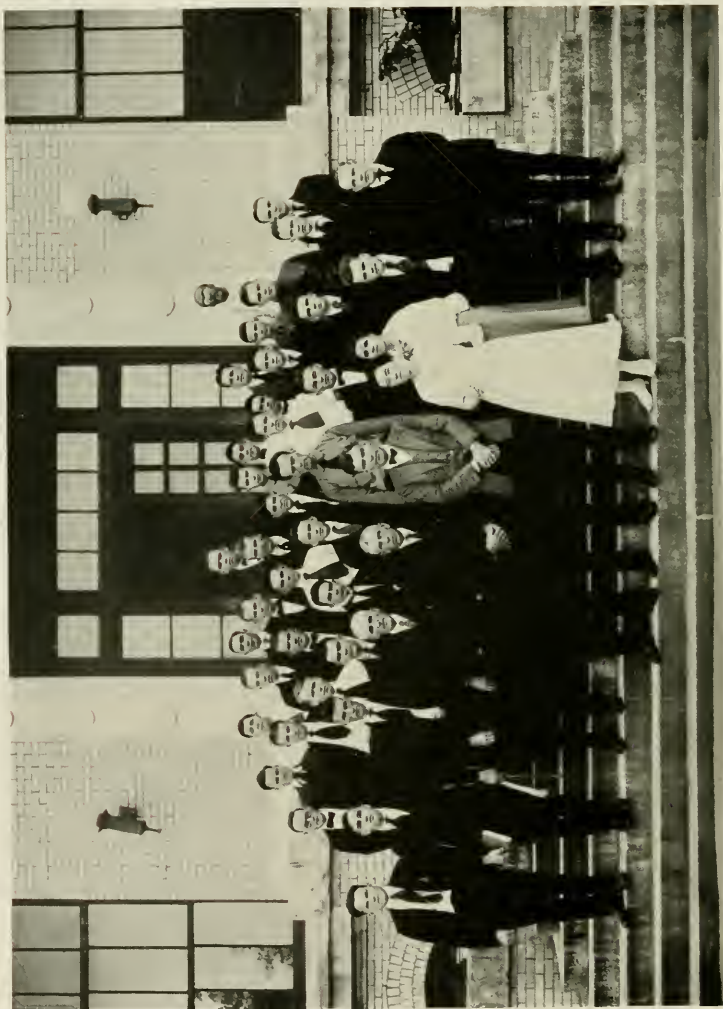

President First Year "Meds"; Medical Society; Chairman Executive Committee.

Φ X.

RUNYON has a mild voice and gentle demeanor, but when quizzes come around, he exhibits the qualities of a "bull". He is one of the luckiest fellows we know, and combining this with good work, he always has the right answer to a question at the proper time. Consequently, he seldom gets blinded and has established an enviable record in his classes. His keen intellect and energy will mean much to his profession.

De cawn-fiel' han' en de cotton-patch nigger,
De laborin' man don't cut no figger,
When it's Come along, ladies, en foller me roun',
De dead-game spoht fum de college town.

I totes my guitah wid a shoulder strap,
En now en again I gives it a rap,
Er-hummin' ol' chunes fum way down Souf,
Wid a cigaroot rollin' aroun' in my mouf.
I'd be plum white, if I jis' wa'n't brown,
Fer I feels at home in de college town.

I kerries de notes wut's boun' to go
Fum de boys to de ladies on Faculty row.
Fer singin' at night I gits mo' pay
Dan my ol' man gits fer ploughin' all day.

Age, 18; Weight, 111; Height, 5 feet 5 inches

Salem Academy; U. N. C. Women's Association; Secretary Pharmacy Class; Honorary Member Pharmaceutical Society.
Σ K Φ.

A HAPPY disposition is a great blessing indeed. Dorothy is not only happy herself, but with her bright smile and friendly manner, she has certainly been a ray of sunshine illuminating the life of everyone with whom she has come in contact. There are two rumors abroad in regard to her future; one, that she intends to go to the Far East to mix "dopes" for the heathen Chinese, but we much prefer to believe the second—"he can scarcely wait for the completion of her profession". But whichever course she pursues, to be sure we everyone wish her "Bonne Voyage".

DELMA DESMOND HOCUTT
HILLSBORO, N. C.

Age, 20; Weight, 160. Height, 6 feet 4 inches

Pharmaceutical Society; Orange County Club; Class Secretary.

"BIG boy" as the name implies, is rather tall. He came to us from the City of Hillsboro, and he seems to think that it is a rather large place. He has been raised in a drug store, and so naturally he is a "bull" in Pharmacy. When it comes to Materia Medica he has the goods. He never lets his studies worry him much, and he takes life calmly. He is liked by all his classmates and we wish for him the very best possible for the future.

JOHN PALMER HORTON
NORTH WILKESBORO, N. C.

Age, 10; Weight, 140; Height, 5 feet 9 inches

Pharmaceutical Society; Wilkes County Club, President; Vice-President of Class.

K Ψ.

"J. PALMER" as we all know him, is the crude drug specialist from the hills of the Blue Ridge. In addition to this, he is quite a ladies' man and is very popular among the students in general. Palmer spends most of his time mastering the unknowns of Qualitative Analysis, of which he is extremely fond. His sole ambition is to be the leading retail druggist of North Wilkesboro and we feel that his capabilities will soon place him in this position.

MARION LEE JACOBS
MORRISVILLE, N. C.

Age, 20; Weight, 145; Height, 5 feet 8 inches

Pharmaceutical Society; Wake County Club; Assistant in Pharmacy.

K Ψ.

"MARION" or "Jake" is a man prone to campus life. He seldom lets fun interfere with his graduation, but he does sometimes let studies break in on his college life. These qualities combine to make an all-round good-fellow, and one that everyone admires. Jake "socials" about a bit and a night off is no treat for him. The "old diggings" back at Morrisville pulled off a mighty stroke when they sent "Jake" down here to Carolina.

GUY SMITH KIRBY
MARION, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 140; Height, 5 feet 8 inches

Davidson College, '17-'18; Pharmaceutical Society; McDowell County Club.

K Ψ.

"GUY" or "Skirb" came to us from Davidson. He often has occasion to take up for his old Alma Mater, but for all that he is a good Carolina man. He has a wonderful memory, studies hard, and never worries about the outcome of tricks—not even his mighty participation in the "social whirl". If you want to get in an argument just say that Marion is a dump, for to him it is the coming city of the West, and he will take pleasure in explaining to you its many advantages and allurements. If he just keeps up this same "pep" when he starts rolling pills—well, Marion might some day be a busy metropolis at that.

VERNE DUNCAN LEA
DURHAM, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 155; Height, 5 feet 9 inches

President Pharmaceutical Society; Durham County Club.

LEA hails from the little town of Durham, but the name of the "smoke" which made the name of this city famous is not present in his make-up. His brain is a veritable storehouse of knowledge and he is a live wire in all college activities. A rare combination of good student, hard worker, and all-round good fellow, makes him worthy of being called one of the best members of his class from all points of view.

PERRY JENKINS MELVIN
ROSEBORO, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 155; Height, 5 feet 9 inches

Pharmaceutical Society; Sampson County Club.

MELVIN is not a veteran of the S. A. T. C. but of the army instead. He started Pharmacy with the Class of '16, but like many other Carolina men he enlisted. Upon his return, his sterling qualities have made him a welcome member of our class. Shaded glasses and the need of a helping hand are the only unknowns to him, for he is never blinded by either quizz or off-hand question. He is true, sincere, and very thoughtful, and his mind is set on the big things of life. He is held in the highest esteem by his classmates and professors and bids fair to be a great leader of men both in and out of the ranks of the "Pharmacos".

JOHN CRATON MILLS
RUTHERFORDTON, N. C.

Age, 10; Weight, 135; Height, 5 feet 7 inches

Pharmaceutical Society; Class President; Rutherford County Club; Student Council.

K Ψ.

"BIT" is a specimen of true blue. He journeyed down to Georgia last summer and passed the State Board of Pharmacy with high honors. When it comes to answering up on class, you will have to hand it to "Bit" for he certainly can deliver the goods. He hails from the western part of the State and has a good word and a bright smile for everyone. The "ole" class doesn't know where he will go when he graduates, but we do know that he has a good "rep" to hold up and we expect it of him.

MILLARD BROWN PHILLIPS
CONCORD, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 145; Height, 5 feet 7 inches
Treasurer Pharmaceutical Society; Cabarrus County Club.

"BROWNIE" is a rising young pharmacist of high ideas and very studious in his work; nothing seems to bother him in the least, except, probably, a final exam in Therapeutics Terms. And when it comes to Physiology, "Brownie" has no trouble in outlining the human system for "Billy-Mc". He claims to have more friends of the fairer sex than any other member of the class—but we predict a bright future, even under this handicap.

WILBERT LAWRENCE STONE
KITTRELL, N. C.

Age, 20; Weight, 154; Height, 6 feet
Pharmaceutical Society; Vance County Club.

"SHAD" is quite a ladies' man especially among the Co-eds at Carolina. However, he devotes most of his time to Pharmacy—Co-eds. "Shad" is very energetic and spends quite a few hours a day either "boning" in the "Carr Barn" or working in the Chemistry 31 Lab. His ambition is also to run the leading "pill-shop" in the city of Kittrell, and two will probably make a better success at it than one.

HARRY WILBUR WALKER
NORLINA, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 160; Height, 5 feet 8 inches

Assistant in Pharmacy; Vice-President Pharmaceutical Society;
Warren County Club.

"BOVINE" is a rusher in all of his studies, always working his work and never letting it work him. Being the only member of his class who finds Chemistry 31-32 tame, he is forced to invade the region of the "Pick" in order to obtain his proper amount of diversion. He is one of the most popular men in the class and stands well with the "profs". We predict a great future for "Harry" in his chosen profession.

THE following section should not be considered a group of University sponsors.

The pictures are merely specimens of North Carolina's "fair ones", selected by representative University men, including the presidents of the four academic classes; the captains and managers of the four Varsity teams, football, baseball, basketball, and track; the editors and managers of the four student publications.

The idea was suggested to the Editorial Staff as one which is successfully used in the Annuals of many large universities, and one which would add to the interest and attractiveness of the Yackety Yack.

SOME boast of a winning spirit: a spirit which demands that every man shall be behind the team with his whole soul and body for every minute—working for victory.

Others boast of their sporting spirit: a spirit which demands that every man should love the game for the game's sake; a spirit which stands first, last, and always for fair play and for sportsmanship.

Weave these two conceptions into a single fabric and you have the athletic spirit of Carolina.

The Carolina man loves the game for the game's sake and stands firm for all the finer points of sporting chivalry, but for this he loves victory none the less. He will not sacrifice sportsmanship for victory, but he will back his team to the last ditch—cheering loudest when the danger of defeat is greatest, and in the final test he stands firm; if necessary he is a good loser.

A hard fighter, a man whose whole heart is set on producing a clean game and a Carolina victory; could such a spirit be shown by our athletes without the admiration and praise of every man in the University?

The Season

THE 1919 season was very successful considering the fact that the teams had only one 300 hitter who played in a majority of the games, namely Capt. Powell. Our pitching staff, composed of Powell, Joyner, Swift, Wilson, and Fields, was admitted the best in the State, each one pitching some fine ball.

With Powell pitching in fine style we defeated Oak Ridge in the opener. In Fayetteville we took the measure of the Camp Bragg team and then pounced on Elon. The Durham Bulls made it four straight.

On April 7th, the N. C. State game on our home grounds was a thriller for the whole season. We edged an extra run on them however, both Powell and Murray pitching stellar ball and keeping most of the fun to themselves.

Elon College handed us our first defeat, errors composing the principal item in the Carolina box score. Joyner next held the V. P. I. boys in the hollow of his big, freckled hand and they garnered neither hit nor run. On April 12th, before an enormous crowd, we lost to Virginia in Greensboro. Capt. Powell had one bad inning and Virginia scored two which exceeded our combined efforts by one. At Chapel Hill we tied Virginia in a thrilling 10 inning battle. Feimster's two-bagger in the ninth, scoring two runs, was the feature of the game.

After losing the next game to the Durham Bulls, we started on the Northern trip, defeating Davidson 4 to 3 in 15 innings, Virginia 7 to 1, Hampden-Sidney 8 to 3, and the Richmond Medicos 13 to 1. The last two games were played against Washington and Lee and Hopkins in freezing weather. We never got started in either game and had to be contented with the small end of the score. Saunders, Feimster, and Powell were the batting stars of the trip.

On May 3d, the fourth game of the Virginia series was played in Greensboro. The Virginia team started an early attack on Powell's "shimmy" ball, and Joyner who succeeded him fared little better. "Lefty" Wilson went in and stopped the assault, but the result showed that his best attempts were too late.

Five days later, Wilson took the mound against South Carolina and proved the home show in a 5 to 0 victory. Wake Forest came next and walked off with the State Championship in a 15-inning game. Both sides hit heavily and each inning ended with men on bases.

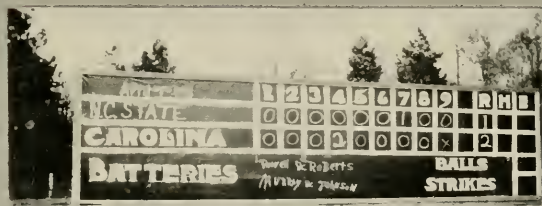

The final two games were played with Trinity in Durham. In the first, Wilson held the Trinity boys scoreless for 15 innings, but we were also unable to score. In the next game, Wilson rung up the twelfth victory to the old 3 to 2 tune. With 12 victories, 7 defeats, and 2 tied games, the team had a percentage of .632 the team's fielding average was .963 and its batting average .199.

The Season

FOOTBALL dope had it that the game here would be below par, but "Capt. Coleman's men", under "Tommie" Campbell, Ramsay, Homewood, and Tandy, came back, and Carolina experienced one of her most successful seasons. The "Drys" had it all their way in Washington, but "Mother Nature" revoked the decision and gave us a "wet" season, the first five games being played on muddy fields.

Carolina opened her season with Rutgers. We started off on the defensive and it took three touchdowns to wake us up. Rutgers did all of her scoring in the first half, but we outplayed them without a doubt in the last half. Coleman's punting was the feature for Carolina. Rutgers 19, Carolina 0.

Northern territory was again invaded when the "Tar Heels" met Yale in New Haven. Contrary to her former practice, Yale tried to pile up a large score, but her first team proved none too good. Capt. Coleman's punting drew applause time and again from the crowded Bowl. "Chuck" Pharr scored the only touchdown against Yale. Yale 34, Carolina 7.

Wake Forest, with one of the best teams that she has had in years, came to Chapel Hill and played a good game on a field of slush and mud. Tenny on an "off tackle" play carried the ball over in the last quarter for the only score of the game. Carolina 0, Wake Forest 0.

Carolina, primed to the hilt and craving action, went to Raleigh and turned loose on N. C. State. This first game between the two institutions since 1905 was a fine exhibition of good sportmanship and hard fighting. Pritchard of Carolina was the star of the game by blocking a kick and scoring the winning touchdown. Carolina 13, N. C. State 12.

The next game was with Tennessee in Knoxville on a field of mud and yet more mud. Neither team showed up nor was able to score. Tennessee 0, Carolina 0.

V. M. I., with too much "Leach" and an over-confident Carolina team on the field together, licked us on our own grounds hands down. V. M. I. 27, Carolina 7.

After a good shake-up and a lot of hard work-outs, Carolina played Davidson in Winston-Salem. The whole team in some of the old form broke up trick plays and passes and brought home the fourth victory. Davidson 0, Carolina 10.

For the first time in history, Virginia and Carolina met in Chapel Hill, the two teams being about equal in weight and experience, played a wonderful game. Virginia started things with a rush, but after an exchange of punts, Carolina assumed the offensive and worked the ball down the field on line plunges until "Runt" Lowe received a short pass from "Nemo" in the second quarter and carried the ball over for the only score of the game. Reinhardt played the best game for Virginia, and Lowe for Carolina. Harrell tackled like a ton of bricks and Coleman held up the "old rep." Virginia played a fine, sportsmanlike game to the very end. Virginia 0, Carolina 6.

"Tommie" Campbell head coach and the best that Carolina has ever had, has proved himself invaluable to our athletics, and thus closed his second successful season on the "Hill."

The Season

A REVIEW of the 1919 track season sets forth the story of a band of enthusiasts restoring to its rightful place one of our major sports. When the season began, material was woefully lacking as a result of the war, and the management was unable to secure a coach. It looked for a time as though there would be no team. The track men of the University determined, however, that this should not be the case. They met and elected Davis (a pre-war star) captain, and under his direction and that of Webb (another pre-war track man) they went to work.

Although the start was late, the work went forward with a vim, and soon a team began to round into shape. In the State Meet which came in May we easily took first place, Davis starring in individual points scored and Spencer pushing the State record in the pole-vault. Davis missed the State record in the shot-put by one half inch. In a dual meet with V. P. I., we were less fortunate but held them to a very close score. As the result of the work of this little band of men, considerable interest is being taken in track this year and prospects are good for the best season in the history of the University. For 1920, meets have been arranged as follows: Triangular Meet at Charlottesville between Virginia, V. M. I., and Carolina; State Meet at Chapel Hill; South Atlantic Meet at Blacksburg, Va.; Dual Meet with Trinity. Plans are also under consideration for accepting Harvard's request for a meet at Chapel Hill on its southern tour. We await with eagerness the outcome of the season.

The Season

THE University has been able to secure for coach this year, Major Frederick C. Boye, who was captain of his quint while at West Point. With Carmichael for Captain and a good schedule by Manager "Shorty" Spruill we may look forward to some rare games this year.

The men who have shown up best so far are Carmichael, Shepard, and Kittrell as forwards, and Morris and Rourke as guards. Liipfert and Douglas are about equal at centre. Shepard returned after serving nearly two years in the army. His last basket-ball record at Carolina was rewarded by being selected as an All-South Atlantic forward. Kittrell and Griffith were very promising substitutes last year. The team is greatly strengthened by the addition of Douglas at centre who came to us from Trinity and who was chosen centre on the All-South Atlantic team. The schedule includes such teams as Davidson, Trinity, Georgetown, Virginia, Catholic University, Navy, and N. C. State.

The season opened with the Durham "Y" and we got away successfully with the opener. Our men showed good early season form and prospects are promising. Durham came back in the next game and lowered our colors on their own floor. Two more defeats followed in close succession, administered by Davidson and the Y. M. C. A. of Charlotte. After that the team settled down to work. Every night they played and practiced in the gym just as though they were fighting the "old rival." After about a week of such work as they had never seen before, they journeyed over to Durham again and took on Trinity accompanied by the whole school. It was a splended game, both teams showing up well. The score was 37 to 26 with Carolina on the long end. To keep up the good record we had a date arranged with Davidson on the home floor, and succeeded in evening up affairs by beating them to the thrilling tune of 23 to 22. The first half ended with Carolina one point ahead, and they were able to maintain a slight lead throughout the whole game. The team leaves shortly for a northern tour on which it will meet many of the best teams in the East. We look forward with eagerness to a successful season, which means a majority of the games in the North to our credit and to wallop N. C. State and Virginia in the bargain. And we believe that we won't be disappointed, either.

GYM TEAM (1919-1920)

The Gym Team

ALTHOUGH, in common with many of the ordinary college activities, the gym has experienced a few years of decided inactivity and dullness due to the influence of the war, it has just passed through a year of unusual interest and animation. Every afternoon it has been crowded to a degree seldom equalled in its past history by students who have shown not a momentary sort of interest, but an extraordinary and continued enthusiasm. Not only were there unskilled Freshmen to whom the use of a gymnasium was, as yet, rather a mystery, but there were many new men of considerable attainment and great promise, as well as a few older men to whom long practice has given more or less proficiency.

The "gym" made two highly successful innovations which mark a distinct progress over the policy of former years. First, it went in for wrestling in a much more extensive way than ever before, one of the upstairs rooms having been provided with mats for this purpose. This is a feature which interests many to whom the ordinary gym training offers no appeal. Also, represented by Joe Person and Percy Lynch, it has given exhibitions during the intermissions of the basketball games which have filled with interest an otherwise tiresome interval. It is also hoped that some time in the near future, arrangements may be made whereby hot water will be provided for the pool during the winter months.

In spite of the vast numbers frequenting the "gym" this year, there was an unusual scarcity of trained men. Although there were four candidates for letters in the winter try-outs (J. A. Person, W. H. Butt, H. E. Martin, and C. G. Ashby), there were only two of the old letter-men back—C. P. Spruill and P. P. Lynch. Notable among the remainder for their good work are Patterson, Wimberley, Long, Ransom and Marshburn; and for the Freshmen, Barnes, Merritt, Dula, and Gholdson. Thus there is promise of a greater and more successful year in '20-'21.

Class and Mass Athletics

WE have seen that although a college is primarily interested in a man's mental development, physical development must in no way be underestimated when we consider the well-rounded man. Taking into consideration that only about eight percent of the students can have a place on the regular varsity squads, the University has sought some definite, attractive form of athletics which is more concerned with the development of the many rather than the perfection of the few. Knowing that the success of the movement depended on the type of man who was to be in charge, Captain C. J. Browne was selected for this work. The interest and enthusiasm of the entire student body readily shows the success of the movement. He appointed a group of men to act as an Athletic Committee with J. S. Massenburg as its chairman. This committee has a definite plan of action for the future. Courts have been provided for basketball in Memorial Hall along with several new outdoor courts, thus giving a large group of men an opportunity for participation in this sport. Interclass track meets will be held during the spring along with the usual class tennis and baseball. It is evident that class athletics has a definite part to play in the University. It develops a fine spirit of fellowship and solves to a degree the growing difficulty of getting men in touch with each other on our overgrown campus.

CLASS FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS—SOPHOMORE TEAM

Tennis

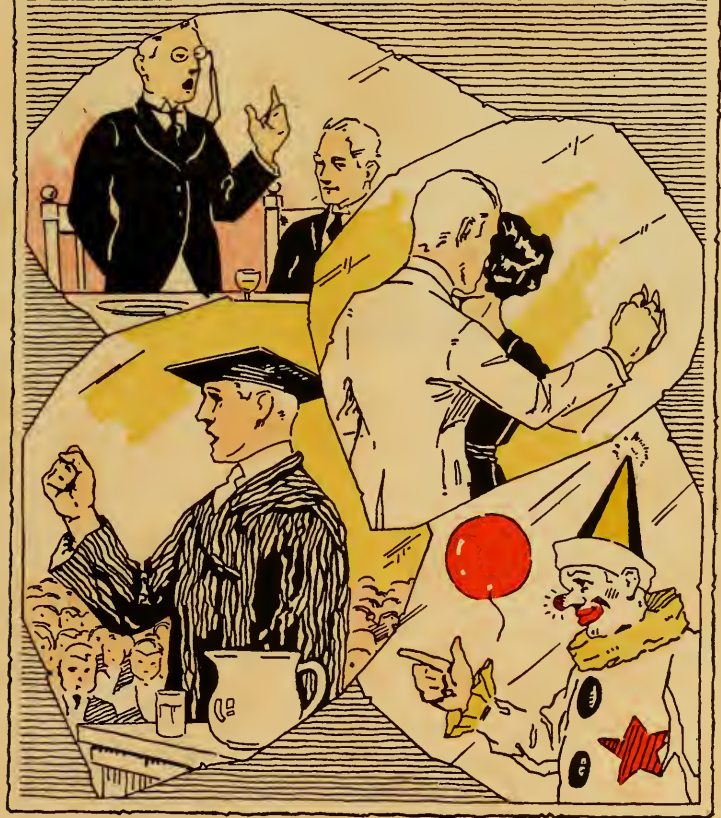

IN common with every other form of athletics at the University, tennis came in for its part of suffering during the war. In fact, we have not put out a varsity tennis team since the Spring of 1918, Wilson and Prince composing this last team. Since that time, class tennis alone has survived. These class tennis tournaments have been filled with thrilling matches and looked on with interest by the students. In the last tournament of the year, "Snooks" Durham won the captaincy of the Senior Class team, Washburn of the Junior, Gardner of the Sophomore, and Williams of the Freshman team. The class tennis tournament of the Fall of 1919 saw many of the same names appear as winners in the tournament. Washburn and Gwynn composed the Senior Class team, Gardner and Noble the Junior, Williams and Barden the Sophomore, and Jernigan and Long the Freshman Class team. Excellent tennis was played and prospective material for the future was uncovered.

Tennis enthusiasts are looking forward to the time when tennis shall once more take its place along with other branches of athletics, and tennis teams shall travel "abroad" in quest of victory as in days gone by. With the election of Ben Cone as manager, we shall count varsity tennis no idle dream. There is an abundance of material, and tennis should and must excel its former importance as a college sport.

The Carolina Playmakers

FREDERICK H. KOCH, Director

Original Folk Plays

GIVEN IN THE

PLAYHOUSE AT CHAPEL HILL

The Carolina Playmakers is the dramatic organization of the University and the community of Chapel Hill, taking the place of the University Dramatic Club. This organization has for its purpose the writing and production of plays of North Carolina and the creation of a new folk drama in this State. The Carolina Playmakers was founded in 1918-1919 by Professor Frederick H. Koch who came from North Dakota to carry on the work of folk playmaking and community drama which he began there as founder and director of the Dakota Playmakers.

During the Summer School of 1919, "The Taming of the Shrew" was presented in the forest theatre. In the late Fall of 1919, three plays were presented, "Who Pays?" a tragedy of the industrial conflict by Minnie Shepard Sparrow; "The Third Night," a mountain play of the supernatural by Thomas Wolfe; "The Hag", a comedy of folk superstition by Elizabeth A. Lay.

In commenting on the work of the Carolina Playmakers the American Review of Reviews has published the following:

"Their efforts deserve commendation from every man and woman who has our country's welfare at heart When every community has its own playhouse and its own native group of plays and producers, we shall have a national American theatre which will give a richly varied authentic expression of American life."

Peggy

A Tragedy of the Tenant Farmer by Harold Williamson

Peggy, the sixteen-year old daughter of Will Warren, a tenant farmer, has promised to marry Jed, a common farmhand, but after talking with Wesley MacDonald, the son of the farm-owner, she becomes discontented with the sordid drudgery of her future with Jed, and declares to Mag, her mother, that she is going to leave the farm to get work in town. "I ain't a gonna marry Jed an' have to work like a dog all my life . . . besides, I got to love the man I marry." But her mother replies scornfully, "Love, what's love got to do with your bread and meat? . . . You was raised on the farm an' I reckon that's jest about the place for you." Her father enters, and worn out by his quarrel with the farm-owner and suffering from "one of them durned miseries" around his heart, when Peggy continues in her determination not to marry Jed, in a fit of rage he drives her from his house—then exhausted by his uncontrolled passion, he reels backward and falls—dead. Now that the breadwinner of the family is taken, Peggy is forced to marry Jed so that her mother and little brother, Herman, may not be turned out of the house by MacDonald. Peggy is foredoomed in her struggle to free herself from the serfdom of the soil.

A Fighting Corporal

A Comedy of Negro Life by Louisa Reid

The large family of Rev. Albert Henry Martin, the negro pastor of Mt. Zion Church expect the eldest son back from France and a party has been planned to welcome him. He returns and is received joyously, especially when they find out that he is not just a private but a corporal. Solomon, the corporal, becomes so swollen with pride in his bragging account of marvelous adventures with captured Germans and machine guns, that when the guests of the party arrive he refuses to demean himself by talking to a mere private (Erasmus Johnson) and carries off Erasmus' girl, Georgia, who has worked in New York and is now the negro belle. Erasmus will not be ignored by the braggart Solomon and he starts a fight in which the corporal is outfought and Georgia is won back. "Doan give me no corporal what can't do nothin' but talk when I kin have a private what kin fight!" she declares, throwing her arms around the neck of Private Johnson as the curtain falls.

Who Pays?

A Tragedy of Industrial Conflict by Minnie Shepard Sparrow

Simon Benson, strike-leader in a North Carolina town, lives with his two children, Jimmie, aged thirteen, and Megsie, a year younger, who keeps house for him. To Benson's home comes John Tate, president of the car company, to plead with the leader as a last resort that the men should accept a compromise and return to work before those who are innocent are made to pay for the unrest. Benson holds to his demands for higher wages, and Tate leaves, declaring that the strikers will be the ones who will suffer. After warning Megsie not to allow Jimmie to leave the house, Benson goes off to join the strikers. Jimmie goes out and returns with news of excitement uptown and a dollar he has earned and a mighty hunger for his supper. Megsie goes out to get the food and a piece of pink ribbon for herself as her share of the supper. Neither had thought of the danger of the riot. In a few minutes, shooting is heard and Megsie is brought in dead. The women whisper that it was her father who fired the shot as she was crossing the street. The problem of unrest which led to the strike has found no solution, but it is the child who pays in the end.

The Third Night

A Mountain Play of the Supernatural by Thomas Wolfe

Dorset and Cogswell are sitting at a table in a room in the "Old Man's house." This is the third night since the "Cap'n" killed the "Old Man", and Cogswell, who is very superstitious, does not like to stay there waiting for the stage to come through. He wants to divide the "Old Man's" gold now and go, and he tells Dorset how the "Cap'n" killed this old man. He had not tried to surprise him, but had entered boldly, the "Old Man" had recognized him and declared that Captain Richard Harkins would never have his daughter now because she was dead. And then the "Cap'n" had shot him. Dorset had found pictures in an old family album, and they piece out the story of Harkin's love for the daughter of the "Old Man", his loss of her when her father took her away and hid her until her death, and the "Cap'n's" revenge on the "Old Man" when he comes to this deserted place to find him. Here the captain enters and proposes that they divide the gold of the "Old Man", but as Dorset and Cogswell raise the hearth-stone to get the box, the "Old Man's" bloody chuckle is heard above the storm outside, his ghost appears, and Harkins tears off the locket with the picture of the girl, and goes out to answer the summons of the "Old Man's" ghost, leaving Dorset and Cogswell terrified at the sound of the bloody chuckle which seems to blend with the sound of the raging tempest.

The Hag

A Comedy of Folk Superstition by Elizabeth A. Lay

Glen and Charlie, the mischievous little grandchildren of "Mammy", are fascinated by the stories of witches and their doings, though Sal, their mother, had no patience with such notions. While Sal is out seeing to the pigs, "Mammy" tells the boys that she has been ridden by a witch and that she is going to catch "the old hag" one of these days. The way to catch a hag is to get her when she is sitting in a wooden bottomed chair, an' then you creeps up behin' her an' sticks a three-pronged fork in the underneath part of the chair, an' she won't be able to move." Glen says that Granny Batts, the old woman whom "Mammy" suspects of riding her, is coming here today and the two little boys plot to catch her while "Mammy" is terrified. When Granny Batts comes in, "Mammy" is forced to sit and talk with her and Charlie creeps up and sticks a fork in the chair on which Granny Batts sits. The old woman at that same minute is seized with an awful pain in her side, and the children are sure that they have caught a witch. As the hag becomes more angry in her vain attempts to get up, the children grow frightened, and when Sal comes in and pulls out the fork in her impatience at "all these here goin's on", Granny Batts jumps up and drives them all from the house in her fury at being called a hag.

Among Ourselves.

FOLLOWING the rule that we are what we are largely because we are where we are, every woman student as soon as she enters the University becomes a co-ed, and as a member of this strange genus she is known to her fellow-students. The thing which is not generally known about the co-eds, is just what they are among themselves and what is their own part in college life apart from the classes.

In 1917, twenty-five women (a larger number than there had ever been at the University), feeling the need for a permanent organization, formed themselves into the University of North Carolina Women's Association, with the aim of promoting the interests and activities of the women students at the University and of arousing interest in the higher education of women throughout the State. This same year, the University took a step toward the encouragement of co-education by providing an Adviser to Women, Mrs. Thomas Lingle. A room in the Peabody Building was set aside for the use of the women students and here they met during the first year, mainly for Red Cross work. With the second year of the association, the S. A. T. C. descended on the University, and the women students confined their activities then to co operating with the "Y" in serving in the canteen and helping with entertainments and with hospital supplies during the "flu" epidemic. The association also adopted five French war orphans for whom it is still providing. In college activities, little progress was made beyond providing a gym class three times a week in the association room.

This year, the association has been able to carry out several plans for the increased activity of the women students "among themselves."

Two Hundred Sixty-five

Several entertainments have been held in which the women have come to know each other better and which has given them some of the social life provided for the men in their fraternities, clubs, and campus organizations. The co-eds entertained the whole student body on Hallow'een with a party in the "Y" and a vaudeville show in Gerrard Hall for which a small fee was charged to cover expenses. With the addition of a victrola, the association room has now become, even more than before, the real centre for the activities of the women students.

Steps are being taken toward the formation of a Y. W. C. A. here which shall co-operate with the Y. M. C. A. The women students this year have also elected their own Honor Committee with a similar function to the Student Council among the men. With Mrs. Marvin H. Stacy as adviser, and forty-two women students in the University, the association is developing the activities of the women in a small way, and is looking forward to a time when a Women's Building will provide for a more complete student organization.

UNDER this year's able leadership, the Young Men's Christian Association has made interesting advances. The central building, hitherto a more or less desolate place with a painfully frigid interior, has been brightened up to an almost incredible degree. Secretary Wunch has used characteristic taste in hanging the walls, now cream-tinted, with well-chosen pictures, and a combination of new lighting fixtures, curtains, carpets, furniture, plaster and paint, has transformed the place into what it eminently should be: a real campus home. The social program of the association also has gone forward with especial rapidity and success. Entertainments of every sort, designed to reach every class of student, have formed a much appreciated part of the year's service. In pursuance of its essentially religious purpose, but absorbing the inspiring atmosphere of its other activities, the association has this year fostered an unusually worthwhile course in Bible Study; has arranged numerous timely meetings of a religious nature; has supplied teachers to eight rural Sunday Schools; has co-operated with the local Sunday Schools and Churches in their work, and has continually sought by doctrine and example to hold up on the campus the ideal of a wholesome Christian life.

In the way of service to the community as a whole, the association has issued the Freshman Handbook and the College Directory; has maintained Lost and Found and Selfhelp Bureaus; has given assistance to new students (especially during the trying opening days of the fall and winter sessions); has brought frequent and worth-while lyceum attractions to the campus; has operated a second-hand book exchange; has supervised the postings of bulletins, and in a hundred and one ways has helped to smooth the wrinkles out of wrinkly college life.

It has supplied leadership to the Boy Scouts of the town, and has also harbored a club of younger boys. For the negroes it has operated a Night School and other institutions of service. In addition, it has co-operated wherever possible with the new program of class and general athletics.

In all these ways the association has given its substance and service to the needs of the group, but its supreme service it reckons as that which has reached the individual men of the campus, and in one way or another quietly strengthened their love of things worth while and of the Christ ideal for life. In a very real sense the association believes that the heart of religion resides in the heart of the individual, and that he above all is worth cultivating. To meet the varying and complex needs of every single man on the campus, whatever they may be, is the highest ideal the organization knows.

So there are two aspects of the work: the apparent and the unapparent. It is the former by which the association is commonly known and for which it is publicly praised and appreciated; it is the latter by which it is more intimately known and for which its name is written deep in the heart of many a Carolina man.

ALLEN ERWIN GANT	Vice-President
SAMUEL ROYAL NORRIS	Treasurer

Dances are never given by the German Club. They are sometimes held when enough of the fellows can extract from dad the necessary fifty—'having bought many new books and broken several test-tubes'. In the early part of December everyone gets excited over the Christmas holidays and craves a dance. And then about April we have found from experience that a series of dances is an admirable cure for the spring fever. At Commencement, the feeling is spontaneous and we just can't help but dance. But, oh! they are glorious occasions, and our social lions who have slept all the year, growl and step forth into their own. And the "gurls"—they come all excited 'n thrilled 'n sparkling 'n everything. They report that somewhere between Chapel Hill and Cove Creek there are in transit two trunks of hats and a handbag of clothes. The 'scollage boys dress up a bit, too; they even wear their hats, and they set their union badges a little nearer the second button of their vests. But now, patient reader, I bring you to the labyrinth of dress-suits, high collars, 'lil cussing, bow ties and olive oil. We soon adjust our smile to the height of our collar and set forth in "the friend's" car in the direction of Battle's, Daniel's, Kluttz's, or Patterson's. White columns, variegated lights peeping here and there from an overhead arbor of the old long-leaf, "melty music—mellow as the moonlight"—mints—all contribute to the excruciating pleasure. Feeds at the house, late dates, sob stuff, rash promises, broken hearts, and a glimpse of the sun ere we snatch a snooze; afterwards, a week's talk on the "dope"—but say, pal, may I cut in?

SCREEN NUMBER

WE are calling this the SCREEN NUMBER because you'll want to hide it. Its too good to give away and its going to be real devilish. The greatest screen queens in the country have sent their pictures, seeing the excellent opportunity for advertisement.

Are you interested in politics?
 Have you a little fairy in your home?
 Are you troubled with shooting pains through your waist-coat?
 Have you lost your pep?
 If so, drink Tanlack.

GROWTH

"OH SAY, WHAT SHALL THE HARVEST BE?"—Cicero.

Caesar crossed the Rubicon and kept his memoirs dry, all of which is very remarkable when you consider our circulation.

We guarantee a circulation—further than that we dare not go.

SOME BABY

(A Poem)

I've seen the gay Midnight Frolic,
Where music and song were rife—
I've watched the surging crowds 'long the "way"
Bent on pleasure—in love with life.

Across the sea, up the Mall or Strand,
I've seen their fairest pass,
For the girl of my heart and the girl of my dreams
I've come back here at last.

And I found her here in the old North State,
Mid the pines and fields of white—
Above is her picture fair, look close,
Now ain't she a hell of a sight?

THE STAR BABY

Illustrated Letter

PAUL HEE

Chapel Hill, N. C.

Dear Dad—

I'm kept pretty busy these days burning the midnight oil. Am embracing one subject in particular and at present seem to be making very good headway.

Your loving son,
Bob.

TB TB TB

In the wilds of Borneo the thirsty cannibal throws a knife, sticks a man, and drinks blood, in Chapel Hill, the thirsty student throws a coin, sticks a man, and drinks a chocolate milk.

TB TB TB

Bill Poindexter (translating Spanish)—The 'er, 'er, 'er—

Dr. Dey—Don't laugh, gentlemen, to err is human.

GEMS FROM THE SIM-JIM FROLIC

1. Freshmen will please not play horsey with the chairs.
2. Gentlemen will please check their old jokes at Jimmy Howell's desk.
3. A soft examination is the noblest work of profs.
4. While there's life there's soap.
5. Spit in the "cuspidaw" not at it.
6. All the living and dead languages spoken here.
7. Ladies please leave their poodles with the sausage man in the corner.
8. Just now, subscribed to it.
9. Don't throw trash on the sawdust nor monkey with the stove—it takes the "kick" out of the weinies.

Fair One—What would you think if Charlie Kistler asked you to take a ride in his car?
Debonair—Why, I would think it was an opportunity to be embraced.

The Tar Baby is published, pardon me, Suppose to be published 15 times a year by E. H. Abernethy, and appears on the second Tuesday of the sixth week of every other lunar month. Perscription $20.00 per year; single copies $.69 (reduced from $.75), all of which is subject to change for our better without notice. Obey that impulse—buy now 'eer I start to profiteer. Address everything to E. H. ABERNETHY, Inc., Carr Barn—Ninth Stall.

Vol. I—what was the last number? Two, well this one is Eighth. May 1, 1920

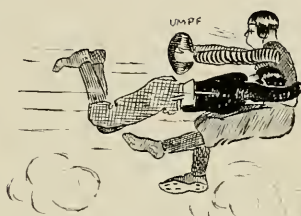

NOTICE TO READERS: I let my editor-in-chief write an editorial now and then—E. H. ABERNETHY.

This, the Antediluvian Number, is devoted to the goddess of Seven Cum Leven or in other words to Chance, and is issued for the edification of those who, not having the fortune to associate with Hughes, Kenny, or left-handed Daniels of the Varsity, might glean some slight glimmerings of how our chief in-door-sport should be conducted. Do you think we could roll with the best in the South; don't you believe our noble bone amblers can agitate and let 'em fly with at least our near neighbors? If you don't, come out and strut your stuff, kid. All you'll lose is some valuable experience and all your world's goods. We believe in our noble heroes of the Varsity, and if you don't, there's only one thing to do. Crap out and shut up. Let 'em ramble.

The black art—waiting on the table.

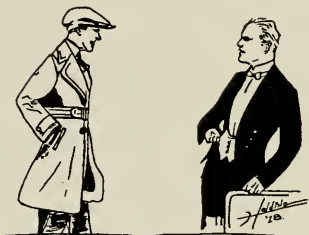

Prof. Carroll (on Econ. 1 class)—Read the first four chapters in Seligman, thirty-nine pages in Seager, eighty-five pages in Raper's "Elementary Railroads" for tomorrow. Also outline the various diminishing returns of an oil stove. If anyone is absent, I'll knock off 51% of the course. We'll hold an extra class at eight o'clock tonight. Good-bye, me men, be prompt.

THE CAMPUS VAMPUS

OR

WHAT EVERY CAROLINA MAN SHOULD KNOW

This is the kind of girl that makes Dad ask, "Why such an increase under the head of incidental expenses, my boy?" Is known as the "million dollar mystery" and is strong for the gay lights.

Cold and cruel, she strings men by the score, then cuts the cord to see which hits the ground the hardest. Is aesthetically inclined.

Very smooth young lady who is extremely interested in student life and the social embetterment of the campus. Very sympathetic and when spoken to on the street always replies, "Come to see me this evening and we'll talk it all over." Loves the soft, warm glow of the fire better than an orchestra circle seat and a party afterwards.

The college widow whose sad life calls for such human sympathy as only a student can give. Sob stuff appeals to her and has the arsenic effect.

Sweet, dreamy, affectionate creature with a skin you love to touch; who thinks it's never too late till twelve and then it's early. She is the type we all fall for and is the reason for more than one "six."

CHIPS~ FROM OTHER TABLES

WHADDA YUH SAY, MOSES, EH?

"Oh, Moses, I have a surprise for you, dearest" quoth the lovely co-ed as she clasped her fiancé, Rountree, to her breast, "I can cook as good as I can play the piano".

Moses' face fell.

"It doesn't matter, dearest," he said despondently, "we can board, you know".

H. C. L. AND TALKING

Stevens, returning from a hurried business trip to New York City, began telling all of his Senior buddies about the beautiful sights—girls, you know, and all that means—that he saw while in America's metropolitan city.

One, thinking it nothing but superfluous chaff, walked away disgustedly, remarking "Talk is cheap".

"Don't you believe it," Stevens informed him angrily, "I had to pay $10 and costs for telling a girl up there what I thought of her".

"Happy" Barden—Hell, no! I'm from Carrboro.

TB TB TB

TB TB TB

Be it known to the modern reader that during the Antiphlogistine period in Egypt among the highest potentates of the land was Melachrino, the undertaker. More of the Rameses and Pharaohs had been pickled by him than by the Valerian wine dealers. And so it came to him as a shock when his only son, Sanatogen, desired to go into the movies.

Young Sanatogen loved his father dearly, and so he waited patiently until Isis ran off with the old man's soul. Sanatogen embalmed the pater and sold the remaining embalming fluid to the peasants as a "pickler," thus keeping within the law, and hit out for his Mecca, the Egyptian Universal City. Sanatogen's soft golden locks and his quickness at the draw soon made him the idol of all Egypt and there was some talk among the opposition of running him for president at the next election against Rameses XX.

Then came the great Roman Caesar. Like all great personages he was shown over Universal City by the Reception Committee. While there he saw Cleo Patra, whose real name was Rebecca Rosenstein, a protégée of the famous Sanatogen. The great Jule fell for her picture and demanded a date. Cleo photographed well, but alas, she knew she was all to the bad off the screen, so Caesar didn't get his date.

So great was Caesar's passion that he waited at the stage door of the Alexandra Opera House (the noted moving picture palace of Egypt) for seven nights running, unacquainted with the fact that Cleo in the role of Mrs. Sanatogen was doing a scene over the stockings of two little Sanos and one little Cleo. A Bolsheviki outbreak called Caesar back to Rome by a former friend named Brutus, an ardent "red." Besides a few feet of film in the animated news, these happenings little affected the Egyptian movie colony. Sanatogen was busy with the building of the pyramids, which, all historical statements to the contrary, were built to give color to his stupendous spectacle, "In the Clutch of Isis." Cleo was busy too with the filming of "The Betrayed Priestess."

Years passed, Cleo had already dyed her hair twice when Antony back in Rome picked up a ten-year-old copy of the Gladiator's Gazette and saw a picture of Cleo.

He threw up a hundred a week job, jilted his wife (his employer's daughter), emptied the cash register and struck out for Egypt.

In the meantime, unknown to Antony, his employer Octavio had gone to Egypt for his health, so at least he told his wife. Octavio may have been old, but he had young ideas. He also had become enamored of the great Cleo. One fateful night at the Alexandra Opera House Antony found himself next to another sighing lover of the screen beauty. Finally, attracted by each other's sighs they turned and recognized each other. Each realized that in the other he had a rival. A fierce struggle ensued during which they were forcibly removed from the theatre. A passing cop picked them up and carried them to jail.

They were brought into court the next morning, but had to wait for a divorce case. Finally the case was brought up. "Sanatogen versus Rosenstein alias Patra," read out the scribe of the court.

"What reasons have you for asking divorce, Mr. Sanatogen?" asked the judge.

"Could any man live with a woman with a face like that? Like a friend I ask you, judge?"

Cleo raised her silken veil.

"Divorce granted," said the judge, and fainted.

Octavio returned to Rome disillusioned with love and went back to raising a family.

Antony couldn't stand the shock. He was buried by Octavio who felt for him as a comrade in disillusionment.

Cleo went into vaudeville as a snake charmer.

Bob—Have you been to see that new girl who is visiting here?

Tom—Yes, I went out to see her last night.

Bob—What does she look like?

Tom—Didn't see her.

Bob—Not at home?

Tom—Too much paint.

"The paper says that the average Raleigh society girl may go almost anywhere without a chaperon."

"Quite true; the average Raleigh society girl is quite old enough to chaperon herself."

TB TB TB

Coe—What did you say when Bobbie kissed you?

Hed—Why, Bobbie!

Three Hundred Seventy-four

Jim—Fo' de land sake! What kind of clothes has you got on?

Wallace—Pepper an' salt. You heard me, nigger.

Jim—'Pears to be mighty little meat for so much pepper an' salt.

TB TB TB

"Hap"—Has "Red" been drinking lately?

Grady—Well, I don't know, he gave two bits for the gold football fund

TB TB TB

Cecille—Did you ever cry over sad books, Mr. Martin.

Boolo—Well now, let me think; I believe I did shed a few tears over a quiz book once.

TAR BABY

Senior (to visitor)—There's Old East, South and Carr

Visitor—But they are all dormitories; where do the students get their education?

Senior—Oh, well, in Durham, Greensboro, and Raleigh.

TB TB TB

"You have the wrong idea of him Dad. He doesn't love me for my money."

"What proof have you, Alice?"

"Why even last night he told me he didn't care if he wasn't able to make a cent in his life if he only had me."

Claudio Ramsio (at the finals)—Do you waltz, 'lil thing?

'Lil Thing—Naw, but I'll put on the gloves with you.

TB TB TB

Dr. Archibald (riding Freshman on Math 1)—Mr. Brown, what's the matter with you? Can't you subtract? Suppose you started out one evening in New York with $40 and come back with $26; what would you be doing?

Fresh. Brown—Sir, I'd be getting off light.

TB TB TB

Dr. Raper (to "Red" Edens)—Would you say, Mr. Edens, that the check-book is a form to aid in the withdrawal of money?

"Red" (from the heart)—Yes sir, Doc.

Dr. Raper—A very good answer, Mr. Edens; exactly correct.

Dizzy One—Why can't an Indian shimmy?

Savoir—Because his quiver is in the wrong place.

THE STEWED-DENT "POKER" COUNCIL

Pres.—You are accused of playing poker.

Junior—Yes, you see my friend and I sat down for a quiet little game—

Pres. (interested)—Yes.

Junior—And he opened for a dollar.

Pres. (more interested)—Yes.

Junior—Well, I went in and drew five cards and—

Pres. (even more interested)—Yes!

Junior—I caught a pair of deuces and he bet a dollar and I called.

Pres.—On a pair of deuces?

Junior—Yes.

Pres.—No case, gentlemen, that's not poker.

TB TB TB

Wayfarer (at Times Square)—Young man, I'd like to go to Central Park.

Wimberley (absorbed in the tall buildings)—Well, I don't mind your going this time, but don't ever ask me to let you go again.

-TAR BABY-

Dr. Wagstaff—Mr. Spencer, what do you know about Louis XIV time?

Spencer (thoughtlessly, of course)—Nothing, I didn't even know he was out for track.

TB TB TB

(Mr. Foister, the Fire Chief)—I saw a girl at the Country Club and her stockings were on wrong side out.

Barney Douglass—What did you do?

Chief Foister—I turned the hose on her.

TB TB TB

Soph (first time at dances)—Oh, her hazel eyes were so bewitching—

Fresh—And she cried witch-hazel tears.

TB TB TB

Charley Smith (to Epworth League)—Folks, the Ministerial Band will conduct the services here next Wednesday evening.

Fresh (from Styx)—Say, is that a Jazz Band?

"What did the Student Council do tonight?"

"It's a howitzer, man, a howitzer!"

"How's that?"

"It's been firing bums the whole evening."

TB TB TB

Jack McD. (to small sister)—You're a little angel, Mary.

Femme de cocur—Yes, Mary, now fly.

Three Hundred Seventy-six

The Old-Timer (at dances)—Oh, Mr. Green, I am getting too old for the dances.

Green—Oh, not at all.

Old-Timer—I feel like a faded autumn leaf among all these young buds.

Green (flushed of Botany 1)—Fine—I press autumn leaves for amusement.

TB TB TB

"Louie" (with marked indifference)—"Judge", what is the law on wines and beers now?

"Judge" Bond—There is only one beverage that is safe to keep.

"Louie"—What's that?

"Judge"—Shoe polish.

TB TB TB

Grizz (interested in football dope)—Why are they feeding the Freshman team sugar over at Mrs. Battle's?

Yank—To put the old sand in 'em I guess.

TB TB TB

Freshman—What are those doleful sounds coming from the Physics 1 Lab? They sound like damned souls in torment.

Cruel Soph. (who had taken the course)—That's just what they are.

TB TB TB

Dr. Charlie (Jumping sprightly into the chair)—Just a hair-cut, Moody.

Moody Lloyd (fondly patting him on the pate)—What'cha needs is a shine, Doc.

Allen Gant, on football trip to Yale (New Haven)—"Station Master, what time does the next train leave for Chapel Hill?"

TB TB TB

Jarman (arguing for women's suffrage in Phi Society, and of course, using a woman's argument)—"I'm right because I'm right, now ain't I right?"

TB TB TB

We editors may dig and toil,
Till our fingertips grow sore,
But some poor fish is sure to say,
"I've heard that joke before".

TB TB TB

First Damsel—Did you say you let your lover sit in your lap? Isn't that indelicate?

Second Damsel—I want you to understand that I can't sit on Clarke Smith's lap, so we have to reverse the process.

KEEP YOUR SEATS TILL THE
GAME IS OVER
FELLOWS!

We Are Looking for a Man—

A man with real initiative and force; a man with the gift of continuance; a man not too optimistic, or too easily discouraged—not too overjoyed by success, or too downhearted by a little hard luck; a man who does not talk much when he succeeds, and none at all when he fails—who appreciates that making good once is only his affidavit that he will continue to make good; a man who is interested beyond the day's job and the week's payroll; a real human fellow—one who can talk with and interest other fellows equally human; a man who would be honest with himself and equally honest with others.

A man under twenty-five or a man fifty might fill the requirements. It's not so much a matter of age, as of capability and a natural-born desire to work.

To such a man, who is interested in an opportunity to earn up to the full limit of his capacity, is offered a permanent position, with the backing and full support of a corporation with three millions of assets—a contract covering a period of years, with accumulative profits.

A connection with the right man should prove mutually profitable.

CY THOMPSON

THE FAITH OF THE AVERAGE MAN

in Life Insurance is evidenced by the increasing demand for its benefits. New insurance written by all good companies in 1919 is equivalent to 25⁶⁷/₁₀₀% of the total volume in force in 1918! It exceeds all the insurance-in-force in 1901. Today as never before, men accept Life Insurance as the most certain means of creating an immediate estate to protect credit; strengthen business relations; provide for dependents and their own old age.

The poor man sees it as his only estate.

The rich man finds it necessary for conserving an estate already created.

BUT THE COLLEGE MAN

is becoming a more intelligent insurer. He not only demands Life Insurance early while it is available at the least possible outlay, but he secures the contract providing the most complete service while he lives. He looks upon death as the last and most remote experience; and he is as much interested in what his insurance policy will do for him if he lives as he is in what it will do for his family if he does not.

MANY CAROLINA MEN

who are intelligent insurers, accept and appreciate the superior policy contracts and the unexcelled service of the first-chartered purely mutual American life insurance company. They are learning that the old New England Mutual has always provided superior service. The Company's 1919 business increased nearly 90% over the business of the year before.

SAYS:—

AFTER SEVENTY-SIX YEARS

of successful management, under the wise supervision of the stringent and beneficent insurance laws of Massachusetts, the ideals of the early founders have fully prevailed. The 1920 policy contracts and service carry the principle of mutuality to its logical and absolute limit. We offer the only perfectly mutual policy. This is a broad statement; but thorough investigation will prove it.

THE NEW POLICY CONTRACTS

of this fine old Company also provide the most liberal Waiver of Premium and Monthly Income Benefits for Total Disability and Double Indemnity for Accidental Death prior to age 65. The difference in life insurance service is determined largely by the terms of the policy and the legal conditions back of it. Massachusetts insurance supervision has been approached but never equaled.

BEFORE YOU CONTRACT

to buy, or take up Life Insurance as a profession, it will pay you to learn what we mean by "Perfection in Protection". An opportunity awaits you.

The Provident Life & Trust Company

—OF PHILADELPHIA—

ESTABLISHED 1865

This Company’s long and honorable record and remarkable financial stability guarantee to its policy holders absolute security, the first fundamental consideration in placing life insurance.

This company’s care and economy in management has resulted in the lowest net cost for insurance, the second fundamental consideration in placing life insurance.

The Provident, having as policy holders many of North Carolina’s leading business and professional men, appeals to the discriminating buyer of insurance.

Correspondence relative to agency representation invited. No field offers better opportunity for success today than the life insurance business.

FOR THE EDUCATION OF GIRLS AND YOUNG WOMEN

Seventy-Ninth Annual Session Begins

September 15, 1920

"The best education is impossible without a foundation of moral teaching which will produce character, and the best education is useless unless directed by strong moral principles towards the best ends for the benefit of society."

"Those things called traditions, which come down from one generation to another, in which each new generation of pupils take a pride, belong to the very soul of the life at St. Mary's School."

THE Editor wishes to extend a most generous thanks for the assistance rendered him by the Bureau of Engraving, Baker, Jones, Hausauer, Inc., and the Ellington Studio. The helpful interest and co-operation of the Board is here recalled and genuine thanks expressed to all its members for both the loyalty and application in solving the most difficult of problems. The association has indeed been pleasant in our efforts to serve the University.

What we mean when we say the “BALANCED SIX”

THE BALANCED SIX

By a scientific distribution of weight in the American Balanced Six, the load is divided over each of the four wheels almost to a fraction of a pound. The Chassis is not underweighted at the rear nor overweighted at the front. Each wheel carries a proportionate share of the load, with an effect on the riding qualities of the car that is little short of amazing.

Entering the World Electrical

THE graduate of today enters a world electrical.

Gathered from the distant waterfalls or generated by the steam turbine, electric power is transmitted to the busiest city or the smallest country place.

Through the co-ordination of inventive genius with engineering and manufacturing resources, the General Electric Company has fostered and developed to a high state of perfection these and numerous other applications.

And so electricity, scarcely older than the graduate of today, appears in a practical, well developed service on every hand.

Recognize its power, study its applications to your life's work, and utilize it to the utmost for the benefit of all mankind.

For the past fifteen years the Educational Department of the Bureau of Engraving, Inc., has been collecting a vast fund of information from the experiences of hundreds of editors and managers of Annuals.

This data covering organization, financing, advertising, construction, selling and original features has been systematically tabulated and forms the subject matter for our series of reference books. These are furnished free to those securing "Bureau" co-operation in the making of engravings for their books.

Begin where others have left off. Profit by their experience and assure success for your Annual.

OUR claim to your consideration lies in the fact that we have applied to our own business the thought contained in this quotation from one of the world's greatest thinkers and practical workers.

If there is anything attractive beyond the ordinary, in the page arrangement, cover decoration, presswork, and general harmony which distinguish our work, be assured it has not been due to chance.

We leave nothing to chance.
Every line, page, volume, as it comes from our establishment, is the result of a carefully laid,
conscientiously executed plan.

The thought and the supervision which our system provides is your guarantee of excellence.

If you have anything to be printed, write us; if we undertake it, we will do it well.
